

END OF MINE WALKOUT IS EXPECTED TODAY

Nazis Confident They Will Secure Control of Danzig

German Leaders Ignore
Chamberlain's Threat to Go to War

NOT GERMAN-POLISH QUESTION THEY CLAIM

Spokesman Confident
Problem Will Be Solved
"in German Way"

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, May 11 (AP)—The statement of Prime Minister Chamberlain that Britain stood ready to go to war in defense of Polish independence in Poland's dispute with Germany over Danzig was characterized in responsible Nazi quarters as "interesting but without effect on the situation."

Nazi quarters, now as before, regarded Danzig as a purely German question.

It is not even a German-Polish question although the problem of the "corridor" is an influential publicist and spokesman said. He was confident that the Danzig question would be solved without compromise and "in the German way."

Asked if this might mean war, he would not commit himself further except to express firm conviction that Danzig would become part of Germany without a drop of blood being shed.

Praise Italy's Forces

The Nazi press gave high praise to Italy's armed forces in what experienced observers considered an attempt to overcome doubts as to the value of Italy as an ally.

At the same time General Franz Epp, Adolf Hitler's deputy on military matters, used the full Italianation over Danzig to reiterate Germany's demand for the return of her war-lost colonies.

Doubt as to Italy's military power is almost traditional among German veterans of the World War which the two powers of the Rome-Berlin axis were opposing.

However, a decision to sign a German-Italian military alliance was announced Sunday.

Despite the new spirit of Italy for Premier Mussolini and the increase in the Italian military establishment, foreign observers believed some doubts remained.

Turkish-British Pact Likely To Be Signed Today

Chamberlain Ready to An- nounce "Mutual Assist- ance" Agreement

(By The Associated Press)
London, May 12 (Friday)—The Minister Chamberlain was expected in informed quarters today to announce the conclusion of a "mutual assistance" pact with Turkey. The prime minister thus was expected to follow up yesterday's decision that Great Britain "indefinitely" would be involved in a pact over the Free City of Danzig. An attempt was made to change the situation by force in such a way as to threaten Polish independence.

The announcement of the Turkish pact, awaited in the House of Commons, was expected to be made simultaneously in the Turkish parliament.

Under the treaty, it was stated, Britain and Turkey would aid each other at all times.

Britain would be free to use the Dardanelles Straits for passage of her fleet into the Black Sea in case of war, and Turkish assistance would be available in the East-Mediterranean.

Chamberlain's statement on Danzig yesterday was supported by a statement of the French Premier, Paul Daladier, in Paris that France's army, already expanded to more than 1,000,000 men, would be reinforced if "certain mass mobilizations are maintained and our frontiers."

Roosevelt Plans Action if Coal Conference Fails

But President Will Do
Nothing While Sessions
Continue

Washington, May 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, putting pressure on soft coal miners and operators to continue negotiations to end the shutdown in the industry, gave out word today that he was considering further steps if the conferences broke down.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, who relayed this information to newsmen, made it clear that Mr. Roosevelt contemplated no action so long as the negotiations continued.

While the deadline the chief executive set for a settlement of the differences had come and gone, he was waiting "in hope and tolerance," Early said, for the final results. Mr. Roosevelt had asked for a settlement by last night.

Early gave no hint as to what step the president was considering and would not discuss what action he might take. Attorney General Murphy disclosed at a press conference, however, that the justice department, at the request of Secretary of Labor Perkins, began studying the question three days ago.

Confers With Murphy

Murphy conferred with President Roosevelt late today, but made no announcement afterward.

Before Early talked with the newsmen it has become apparent that many mines outside the so-called Appalachian area would reopen under individual contracts with the United Mine Workers, thus precluding a coal famine.

Consequently, Mr. Roosevelt's effort to assure continuance of the negotiations was regarded generally as aimed at preventing the possible development of labor warfare in the eight-state Appalachian area.

On Capitol Hill the coal controversy was brought into the discussion of proposed amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Assails Wagner Act

Testifying before the House Labor Committee, Representative Hoffman (R-Mich) said the question was, "shall any organization have the right to say that coal shall not be dug unless the miners are members of a particular organization?"

He was arguing that the labor act should be amended to say that an employer shall have the right to join, or not to join, a labor organization.

Operator Deplores Ability of Single Man To Tie Up Industry

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—The coal industry should aim at freeing itself from the "domination of a single man who by a single word can tie up an industry," President J. G. Bradley of the West Virginia Coal Association asserted today.

Bradley, a prominent operator and head of the Elk River Coal and Lumber company, told the West Virginia Coal Association of Commerce:

"The difficulties which have been brought home to us are a good thing because they prove we have some thinking and some acting to do."

"We have to solve industrial problems to the benefit of everybody," Bradley said, and charged that "management in relation to labor is derelict. Except in isolated cases, business management has paid little attention to labor problems."

Eight Perish in $3,000,000 Grain Elevator Fire

Worst Conflagration in Chicago Since
1934

Rages Five Hours before Firemen Bring it
under Control

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—A series of blasts and roaring flames destroyed five huge grain elevators today, wiped out all traces of eight missing men and caused damage far in excess of $3,000,000.

The fire—most serious in Chicago since the $8,000,000 stock yards conflagration of May 19, 1934—raged for five hours before it was brought under control by 400 firemen.

Even then the heat from the charred ruins was so intense that officials could not approach them to confirm their fears that eight workers had been trapped and killed in elevator "A" of the Rosenbaum Grain company.

Eighteen men—13 firemen and five workmen—were rushed to hospitals. Eight of them were in serious condition.

Property Loss $3,000,000

Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan estimated the loss in property alone at $3,000,000. Unaccounted for the time being was the value of more than 3,500,000 bushels of grain that had been stored in the structures.

An explosion, believed to have been caused by dust, touched off the blaze in elevator "A" of the Rosenbaum firm in the heart of the city's largest grain district. The roof of the building, 146 feet high and covering an area of a half square block, blew into the air. The shuddering store house became a geyser of flame.

Quarter Mile Inferno

Wood, metal, sparks and bricks rained down upon employees scurrying for safety. Accompanied by muffled booms, like the rumbling of a volcano, fire burst out in elevators "B" and "C." The fiery tongues darted across a 30 foot wide slip and ignited two elevators of the Norris Grain company. A quarter mile sector was transformed quickly into an inferno.

Two barges, a dozen freight cars and five automobiles were burned or wrecked by collapsing walls.

Firemen expressed the belief that only the ashes of the eight victims bodies would be found in the debris.

Economic Pansies In Washington Too Numerous for Johnson

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Business would be "better off if it forgot about Washington entirely and got back to its knitting," Hugh Johnson, former NRA administrator, said tonight.

Speaking at a banquet held by the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce, Johnson said returning to his "knitting" is the "last thing it seems to want to do."

With reference to the present administration, Johnson said "you can't squander yourself into prosperity."

"If we had fewer politicians in business and fewer economic pansies running business in Washington, we'd all be better off," he added.

Turning to the European situation, Johnson said:

"Whether there will be war in Europe depends upon a couple of madmen in Berlin and Rome and whether we get sucked in apparently depends upon a single magician in Washington."

He advised that "we must build up strength equal to other countries and then keep out of war, which is the only way to save democracy and decency."

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—The coal industry should aim at freeing itself from the "domination of a single man who by a single word can tie up an industry," President J. G. Bradley of the West Virginia Coal Association asserted today.

Greenfield Freed in Death Of Imbecile Son He Killed

Bronx County Jury Frees
Father in Mercy
Killing Case

New York, May 11 (AP)—Louis Greenfield, once prosperous milliner who killed his imbecile son Jerome, 16, rather than see him suffer, was acquitted of a first degree manslaughter charge tonight by a jury of married men and women, most of them parents, in Bronx county court.

Greenfield, who sobbingly testified the boy was a problem that even the greatest specialists couldn't solve, chloroformed him last January 12, after long deliberation.

Mother in Danger

Doctors said that the youth never progressed mentally beyond a 2-year old and that his mother, also a weeping witness at the trial was in danger of attack by him.

The jury deliberated four hours. Greenfield said he and his wife, Anna, planned to adopt a three-year old child and "start a new life."

A tense courtroom heard the closing arguments of the trial. The father's worry, through 16 years, was compared by his attorney to "water dripping on a stone, drop by drop, wearing the stone down, year after year, week after week, awake or asleep, at every minute—a strain on his mentality."

Did "Moral Thing"

"You can't say guilty," the attorney told the jury soon to decide the fate of Greenfield, a mild-mannered Bronx milliner. "After all, he did the moral thing."

In turn, Assistant District Attorney George Tiller argued it was not given to a parent to decide whether a child should live or die.

Judge Lester W. Patterson charged with jury to acquit Greenfield if they believed his story that he was an instrument of "the will of God" in chloroforming the boy.

End of Soft Coal Crisis Will Buoy Many Industries

Fibre of National Life Dependent upon
Miners

New York, May 11 (AP)—The indicated end of the soft coal crisis removes a serious threat to the thousands of dependent industries and services that constitute the fibre of national life—transportation, utilities, manufacturing, and other activities.

The coal shortage already had been felt acutely in some of the country's most important centers. In New York, two of the city's three elevated-subway systems dependent on coal power had to cut service 25 per cent.

In Pittsburgh, domestic coal was melted out on doctors' prescriptions. Railways reckoned their loss through the mine shutdowns at $11,000,000 a week. The United States Steel Company closed several of its Pittsburgh blast furnaces, and the U. S. Smelting Company laid off scores of men in Wheeling, W. Va.

Baltimore hospitals went on a part-time heat schedule, and New York hospitals producing their own power from coal made drastic preparations for emergency operations.

Large coal supplies staved off difficulties in Chicago, Boston, Washington, Atlanta, Richmond, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cleveland, Milwaukee, and Indiana.

The automobile industry around Detroit also had a sufficient stock to avert curtailed production, and railroads were able to get a considerable supply from western mines before the full shutdown to obviate all but slight service reductions.

Sculptor Asks Court To Find His Statue

New York, May 11 (AP)—Sculptor Louis Slobodkin appealed to the State Supreme Court today to help him find the Abraham Lincoln statue he made for the government's New York World's Fair display.

Four days before the fair opened, he said, the statue was in place in the fountain in front of the million-dollar federal building; when the fair opened, it was gone.

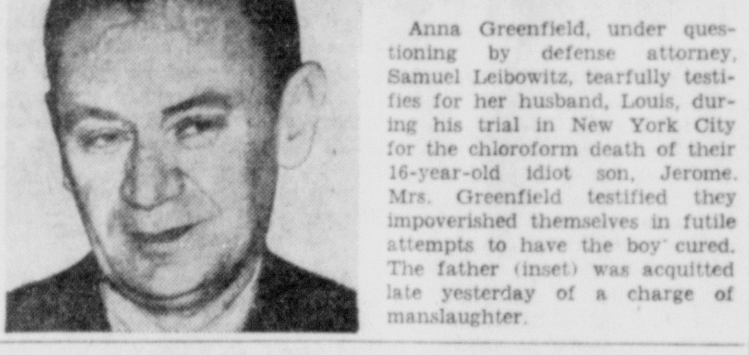

Federal officials explained that it was deemed not suitable.

Announcing his intention of suing the government's Fair Commission, Slobodkin obtained a court order for the commissioners to show cause Tuesday why they shouldn't reveal what happened to the statue.

AIDS MERCY KILLER'S DEFENSE

Anna Greenfield, under questioning by defense attorney, Samuel Leibowitz, tearfully testifies for her husband, Louis, during his trial in New York City for the chloroform death of their 16-year-old idiot son, Jerome. Mrs. Greenfield testified they impoverished themselves in futile attempts to have the boy cured. The father (inset) was acquitted late yesterday of a charge of manslaughter.

Pennsylvania House Considering Law To Protect School Teachers

Legislation to Prevent Interruption in Salaries
Planned

Harrisburg, May 11 (AP)—Legislation designed to prevent interruption in school teachers' salaries started moving in the House today with the sanction of the education committee.

Hundreds of Pennsylvania districts were unable to meet many obligations this year because of poor tax collections and some teachers went unpaid for months. A few went on strike for a brief time.

The plan reported out by the committee also would raise salaries of teachers in third and fourth class districts.

The House turned to this new problem with most of its other major issues out of the way except appropriations. The general appropriation, amounting to about $537,000,000 to operate the state government for two years, will be given its final touching up in committee Monday night.

Higher school taxes in the state's big cities were approved by the House.

Two bills were sent to the governor permitting Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to increase rates from $1.025 to $1.1175 per $100 of assessed value and authorizing the districts to issue bonds for funding floating indebtedness.

Another deficiency appropriation of $2,000,000, the fourth this session, was passed by the House.

The House also approved and sent to the Senate a $100,000 appropriation bill to pay the costs of the campaign charges grand jury investigation.

Fog Delays Progress Of King and Queen

Aboard the Empress of Australia, May 11 (Canadian Press)—Fog-bound on the Atlantic 350 miles east of Cape Race, King George and Queen Elizabeth enjoyed themselves watching movies today while the Empress of Australia drifted idly.

The halt in their voyage to Canada and the United States came early today when the big white liner became enveloped in a thick fog and her engines were shut down after four and a half days of steady progress.

It was expected the fog would lift in time to permit the royal party to reach Quebec on schedule Monday morning.

McNutt Coming Home And May Not Return

Manila, May 11 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, United States high commissioner to the Philippines, and his family sailed today for what was announced as a visit home.

Usually reliable sources, however, believe McNutt, former Indiana governor, will never return to the Philippines as high commissioner.

Dr. Steelman Claims Crisis Is at an End

Mediator Declares Operators Feel Agreement May Be Reached Today Assuring the Reopening of All Mines; 6,000 Western Kentucky Miners Return To Work Under New Contract

New York, May 11 (AP)—A final showdown tomorrow in the nine-week deadlock of the Appalachian conference over the United Mine Workers' demand for a union shop was projected tonight as a federal mediator assured the nation the soft coal crisis was over.

Even as Dr. John R. Steelman, the mediator, asserted the operators felt an agreement may be reached tomorrow facilitating the reopening of virtually all the mines now closed in 26 states, the first break in the nationwide shutdown came as 6,000 western Kentucky miners went back to work after the operators acceded to the union's demand for a union shop.

Western Kentucky is one of the outlying soft coal areas which were closed down last week, adding 120,000 miners to the army of 340,000 idle since the shutdown in the Appalachian area April 1.

Cumberland Bond Issue Authorized By Gov. O'Connor

Signs Bill Providing for $500,000 for This City

Also Signs Bill Fixing
Teacher Minimum Pay
at $1,000

Annapolis, May 11 (AP)—Authorization for a $500,000 Cumberland bond issue led the list of eleven Western Maryland bills signed tonight by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor.

On-sale liquor license hours in Washington and Frederick counties were fixed at from 6 a. m. to 1 a. m. the following morning.

The governor approved the measure fixing minimum teachers' wages in Allegany county at $1,000 annually for teachers without degrees and $1,200 for teachers with college sheepskins.

Salary of the mayor of Hagerstown was increased from $1,800 to $2,500 annually in another measure. Councilmen got a boost from $800 to $1,000 a year.

Three Hagerstown bills signed included changes in election and registration dates, provided the polls shall be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and set the next mayoralty election for the fourth Tuesday in March.

O'Connor approved bills extending the corporate limits of Hagerstown and providing the city with a central purchasing department, with a city purchasing agent at its head.

Other Allegany county bills increase the ante to county volunteer fire departments from $4,425 to $4,800 annually.

Belated Phone Call

Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Henry P. Trinity's telephone rang today and a caller said: "Amrein and his bunch are outside."

"Thanks," said Sergt. Ralph Amrein, already on the inside. He arrested Trinity on charges of maintaining a gambling establishment.

Farley Praises Roosevelt Foreign Policy as "Intelligent Course"

Columbus, O., May 11 (AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley declared tonight that President Roosevelt is pursuing "an intelligent course" in foreign affairs to make certain the American continent will not become the spoil of any foreign war lord.

Another Roosevelt cabinet member, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who preceded Farley in addresses before the Great Lakes Regional Conference of women Democrats, pledged government influence to eliminate the necessity of labor striking to gain recognition.

Farley spoke as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. "In some quarters," Farley asserted, "our president is blamed for not taking more definite steps toward curbing the greed of dictators."

"In other quarters, he is accused of increasing our peril of involvement by speaking man-fashion of the gangster nations which tear up treaties and are seeking to dominate the world by terror and blackmail."

"Actually, our president has pursued, and is pursuing, an intelligent course which not only has insured respect of our institutions but has made it certain, or at least as certain as anything can be in a world infected by totalitarian views and plagued with Napoleonic ambitions, that the American continent, or any part of it will not become the spoil of any foreign war lord."

Secretary Perkins said the Roosevelt administration was committed to the objectives of reasonable profits for business, opportunity for investment in expanding and new industries, stability of employment, high wages and good working conditions.

The Appalachian operators' conference, covering 338,000 of the idle miners, operates under the "unit rule" of unanimity, binding in the present situation, the entire organization to the resistance of the dissenting group.

Steelman said Lewis had agreed not to authorize individual contracts in the Appalachian area before the "deadline" set for tomorrow morning.

Asked if there was a chance of keeping the threatened Appalachian conference together despite its dissension and the unit rule, the operators' spokesman said:

"There is a chance."

Believe Settlement Near

Dr. Steelman, strongly indicating his belief that a settlement was near, said he would remain nearby tomorrow, but "my service will not be needed."

"Everything is cleaned up," he added.

Announcing the new overnight deadline, Steelman said:

"The operators' committee now feels that by 9 a. m. (EST) tomorrow the Appalachian conference as a collective bargaining unit and the United Mine Workers of America may reach an agreement, thus facilitating the opening of all, or at least practically all, of the mines in the shortest possible time."

"This postponement still leaves time for the mines to begin operations by Monday morning."

Morgenthau Firm In Stand for Tax Revision Measure

Treasury Secretary Undaunted by Blasts
from Critics

By IRVING PERLMETER

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau nailed tax revision fast to the Treasury's policy mast today against the blasts of skeptical reports which have blown steadily through administration corridors since the program was announced in February.

Firmly and seriously, in the midst of gaiety over his 48th birthday which occurred today, he told reporters he still favors modification of any taxes which are deterring business. When one reporter asked whether President Roosevelt had virtually forbidden him to offer the program to congress, he said:

"That's ridiculous. We're living under a democracy, thank God."

The secretary declined to give details of his tax program which he said would not be made public until he testified before the House Ways and Means committee in about a week. Nor would he say whether he would set forth his plans merely as possibilities or as specific recommendations.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the Ways and Means Committee, who said he consulted the president on taxes Tuesday, also told reporters that "the door has not been closed" on revisionary legislation.

He added that neither the President nor anyone else in authority apparently wanted general revision of the tax laws.

This, it was indicated, did not preclude such frequently discussed proposals as merging the four corporate taxes into one, and giving corporations such technical advantages as offsetting operating losses of one year against profits of the next.

Lewis's Demands Not Acceptable in Southern States

Appalachian Operators Oppose Closed Shop Contract

Knoxville, Tenn., May 11 (AP)—Southern Appalachian coal operators unanimously opposed today what they called a "closed shop contract" with the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.) and indicated present demands of John L. Lewis, U. M. W. president, were unacceptable.

After a meeting here the operators announced they had instructed their representative in the New York contract conference, L. C. Gunter, "to continue indefinitely his unqualified support of the operators of the entire Appalachian area in refusing to sign a closed shop contract."

Although union leaders assert they are asking for a "union shop" and not a "closed shop," Calvin Holmes, veteran coal man and one of the conferees here, said "it is twofold union and twofold deal."

The union shop does not require non-union employees to join the union but usually stipulates new employees must join within a specified period of time. The closed shop requires all employees to be union members.

Holmes said most of the Appalachian area had been operating under the "union shop" but was unalterably opposed to a "closed shop contract."

Likewise, at Birmingham, a deadlock over the union shop proposal for Alabama's 20,000 idle bituminous coal miners was forecast today by sources close to the state's commercial operators.

13 Face Trial in Insurance Plots

Philadelphia, May 11 (AP)—Tales of "hexing," the "evil eye" and "magic love potions" were mixed dramatically with tearful professions of innocence as men and women were hurried before police judges in swift preparations today for mass trials of the dozens accused in the eastern states insurance murder plots.

In all, 13 were held for trial, the grand jury further hearing or extradition. Seven are widows of men whose deaths investigators have laid to the far-flung ring. Detectives have estimated "as many as 100" persons might have been killed by the plotters in the last 10 years. Poisonings, drownings, head-breaking and automobile "accidents" have been laid to the ring. Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDermott said some wives gave the ring a flat fee or a percentage of insurance to kill their husbands; others bought poison the ring called "witch's brew" and administered it themselves.

In some cases, he said, the poisoners later were poisoned to silence them about the ring's deals in death.

John Goldsborough Honored by Masons At Romney Banquet

Romney, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—A hundred Masons and members of the Eastern Star had as their honored guest at a banquet here tonight John T. Goldsborough, a Mason for fifty-four years and a member of the local lodge for more than fifty years.

On behalf of the Grand Lodge of West Virginia, Ray Luttrell, Deputy Grand Master of District 14, presented Mr. Goldsborough with a handsome pin. The presentation was made after a beautiful and impressive tribute to the only living charter member of the Romney lodge.

The banquet was given by Clinton Lodge No. 86, A. F. & A. M. for the members of the Order of the Eastern Star. The meal was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church. Judge G. K. Kump was toastmaster, and the Rev. George J. Cleveland, rector of St. Stephen's church, spoke on "The Search for Light."

Russell C. Quinn is Worshipful Master of the Romney Lodge. Past-masters who were present at the banquet include J. Bradley Thompson, Blair M. Haines, C. H. Parsons, R. W. Baird William A. Powers, and Paul C. Harrison. John L. Lehman and the Rev. Wilbur A. Reid also spoke.

Seek To Halt Sale of Beer in C.C.C. Camp

Hagerstown, May 11 (AP)—The grand jury recommended today that the sale of beer at the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Boonesboro be stopped.

Jurors reported investigating and finding that the beverage was sold at a camp canteen "to all members of the camp stationed there, many of whom are minors."

The jury included the recommendation in its report to Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan of the Washington County Circuit Court after hearing testimony of a group of CCC enrollees concerning the sale of beer.

The jury also recommended that persons employed on WPA projects be cut from the WPA rolls if they fail adequately to support their wives and children.

The jury session closed today after four days of investigating. Criminal court will open May 18.

NEW YORK POLICE THROWS BIG LIQUOR PARTY

Mournful spectators watched thirstily as police in Brooklyn, N. Y., hurled confiscated bottles of alcohol, wine, cordials, beer and whiskey against the storehouse wall. The liquor, valued at about $46,000, was seized during raids on illicit warehouses.

Roy Murphy Sane, Faked Hunger Strike, Hearing Brings Out

Enid, Okla., May 11 (AP)—Roy Murphy, 40, who was accused by the state of going on a hunger strike to escape trial for a double murder, was adjudged sane today at a hearing which he attended on a stretch.

The state immediately started plans to try the emaciated man for the slaying of his brother, Harry, and Harry's wife in dispute over ownership of a cafe. The death penalty will be demanded.

Murphy's counsel contended he had not eaten for 22 days, "because I'd rather die than go to trial," but Dr. R. C. Jacobs, who examined him for the state, expressed belief Murphy was "pretending" to fast.

38 Missing after Schooners Crash

Yarmouth, N. S., May 11 (Canadian Press)—Seamen rescued after two United States fishing boats collided and sank off Nova Scotia said tonight that 38 men of both ships were still missing and one was dead.

The seamen told of the accident of the two schooners, the Isabelle Parker and Edith C. Rose, after reaching this port tonight in the gasoline boat Amacita which picked them up.

The nine fishermen brought in by the Amacita after they had rowed 80 miles in dories, said 20 men of the Gloucester fishing vessel, Edith C. Rose, and 18 from the Boston schooner, Isabelle Parker, were unaccounted for.

The ships collided yesterday about midway between Boston and Yarmouth and sank within an hour and a half.

The Edith C. Rose managed to launch only two dories and it was feared many of her crew of 25 had perished in the chilly Atlantic waters. The skippers of both ships were among the missing.

Sen. Reynolds Assails Newspaper Writers

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Senator Reynolds (D-NC) in a four-hour Senate speech today, said two newspaper columnists were "trying to destroy me in the eyes of the American people."

He declared that Robert Allen and Drew Pearson, authors of the syndicated "Washington Merry-Go-Round" were "underhandedly, left-handedly" labeling him "an agent of Germany."

"Because I point out to the American people that England has failed to grant Ireland its absolute independence, must I be labeled an agent of Germany? Must I be labeled as a Hitlerite?" Reynolds shouted. Quoting excerpts from the column, Reynolds said the "knock-out" blow was an "insinuation" that the Vindicators, a society organized by the North Carolina senator, was "financed by Hitler's money."

Sale or Breeding Of Parrots Banned

Annapolis, May 11 (AP)—Raucous and indignant parrots may lobby against a bill signed by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor today when the next legislature meets.

The bill prohibits the importation, sale or breeding of birds of the parrot family in Maryland. The measure was designed to prevent psittacosis, or parrot fever.

Ex-Clarksburg Manager Lands Pittsburgh Job

Pittsburgh, May 11 (AP)—Frank J. McAndrew, former city manager of Clarksburg, W. Va., today was appointed assistant superintendent of the Pittsburgh Water Company's plant here.

He was formerly with the American Water Works and Electric Company in New York and the City Water Company of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Weather in Nearby States

West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania: Fair and cooler today. Saturday increasing cloudiness with slowly rising temperature.

Japanese Kill 10,000 Chinese In Major Battle

Shanghai, May 12 (Friday) (AP)—A Japanese communiqué today reported 10,000 Chinese had been killed in a major battle in progress since May 1 in Hupeh province, 200 miles northwest of Hankow.

The communiqué said the remainder of the Chinese forces on that front, totalling 45,000 men, were trapped between two Japanese columns.

Apparently yielding to Japanese pressure for stricter control against terrorism, authorities of Shanghai's French concession and the municipal council issued a joint proclamation threatening severe punishment and expulsion for persons engaging in "political activities."

Sir Victor Sassoon, who owns large properties in Shanghai, predicted that 30,000 Jewish refugees from Europe would be accepted in Shanghai before the end of the year.

Dr. Steelman Claims Crisis Is at an End

When the U. M. W. leader issued his individual-contract authorization for the regions outside the Appalachian area, Steelman pronounced the coal crisis "over."

Pointing to the fact that during the day John L. Lewis had authorized the United Mine Workers in bituminous fields outlying the key Appalachian area to sign individual contracts with operators willing to grant the "union shop," Dr. John R. Steelman, U. S. labor department conciliator, said a "large percentage" of them already had such a shop "in practice."

Both Sides Favorable

"Both parties wish to keep such an arrangement," he added. "Different associations and individual operators have given assurance of their desire to have a contract based upon the miners' proposal of March 30."

That proposal, he said, was the "union shop, already in effect practically, be actually written into the contract."

Thus, he asserted, "so far as the public is concerned, the deadlock is over."

Operators said later they were "very much surprised" by Dr. Steelman's statement. One spokesman declared the operator negotiators in last night's long conference rejected a proposal by the federal conciliator for the signing either individually or by districts of what they termed a "closed shop" contract.

Such a step, the spokesman said, would mean the "smashing" of the 6-year-old Appalachian conference. He added that Dr. Steelman told the negotiators his proposal had the approval of President Roosevelt.

Even as Steelman spoke, however, Appalachian operators and representatives of the union—who had been under almost unparalleled Roosevelt administration pressure to end their quarrel and thus to reopen the bituminous mines of 26 states, where 460,000 men have been idle—were meeting once more in an effort to reach a blanket agreement.

Operators expressed doubt as to what steps could be taken at the session of the negotiating committees. If they failed to reach an agreement, they said, it was likely the full Appalachian conference would be called back into session, a disagreement reported as it was once before, and final adjournment taken.

Lewis awaited the outcome of that conference to determine whether he would offer his individual contracts to operators within the Appalachian as well as outside. The Appalachian, producing some 70 per cent of all the nation's soft coal, is so dominant that the labor decisions made for it usually control in the rest of the belt.

The Appalachian contract expired March 31 and within a few days some 229,000 union miners laid down their picks. Unionists in other regions followed them as the negotiations proceeded fruitlessly. As the situation rushed to a showdown here in New York, other significant developments occurred in Washington and elsewhere.

Roosevelt Plans Action

The White House disclosed that President Roosevelt himself had been considering "some steps" of a nature not explained, and Attorney General Murphy said Secretary of Labor Perkins had asked him for an opinion three days ago as to what further action the government could take in the controversy.

"I can't say what action the government could take," the attorney general commented.

In Columbus, Ohio, the labor secretary said she was certain the coal shortage would be relieved by the signing of individual contracts. Speaking of the shutdown, which some operators have termed a "strike," she remarked: "We have regarded it as a lock-out."

Agree on Contract

A joint announcement by the union and the Western Kentucky Coal Operators Association said they had agreed on a two-year contract, recognizing the union as the exclusive bargaining agent and granting a closed shop.

The agreement, covering 17 coal companies, was the first effected in the CIO union's effort to gain the protection it seeks against possible incursions by the Progressive Miners Union (A. P. M. U.) or other labor organizations. U. M. W. President John L. Lewis, notified other outlying districts the union was prepared to sign individual contracts.

The union shop demand has stalemated the Appalachian conference representing 70 per cent of the nation's soft coal production, and observers said tonight that tomorrow's session would answer the question whether unanimity would prevail.

The four negotiators for the management worked frantically to save the six-year old conference as a collective bargaining unit and effect an agreement which would assure peace in the entire industry. The alternative was signing of contracts by districts or individuals willing to accept the terms laid down by Lewis.

Expect Many to Sign

A leading spokesman for the operators said that a "large block of the tonnage (in the Appalachian conference) has already reached a satisfactory agreement with the miners."

He expressed belief "there is a definite chance to keep the conference together," but admitted there was a distinct division between the north and the south and he did not know what the south would do.

Some southern leaders did not share the optimism of the spokesman and said the group was unalterably opposed to the closed shop, union shop or similar proposals. These leaders said they saw no immediate prospect of the operators they represented signing such an agreement in the conference or separately.

Fear Control by Lewis

"One of the operators' objections to the union shop proposal has been expressed fear that the U. M. W., which claims to represent 97 per cent of the miners in the industry, would encroach on the rights of management," Lewis has called these fears groundless and an authoritative source said tonight that negotiators would seek to have a clarifying statement incorporated in the minutes of the conference.

In the event the conference ends in a deadlock and individual agreements follow, operators said an effort would be made to keep the conference alive. This might be done, they said, by writing into each individual contract provision that, upon expiration, the question of renewal would be negotiated by the Appalachian conference.

Previously other operators had expressed fear that the division in the ranks would spell the death-knell of the conference.

Discuss Merchandising

Richmond, Va., May 11 (AP)—Merchandising problems and their solutions were discussed today by delegates attending the third annual convention of the Virginia Coal Merchants Association.

Annual reports were presented by President Dennis B. Edwards of Newport News and Secretary Harris Mitchell of Richmond.

Speakers at the concluding session tomorrow morning include H. A. Glover, Huntington, W. Va.

Daladier Warns France May Keep On Building Army

(By The Associated Press) Paris, May 11—Premier Daladier told Parliament today that France would continue building alliances and reinforcing her arms unless her neighbors slackened their military preparations.

His message was interpreted in diplomatic quarters as a warning to Germany and Italy to start demobilizing soon or see even more men added to the more than 1,000,000 now under French colors.

"National defense," Daladier declared amid cheers at the opening of the spring session of parliament, "requires first military measures. We have taken them. We do not think of reducing them but rather of reinforcing them if certain massive mobilizations are maintained beyond our frontiers."

Before Daladier spoke, President Albert LeBrun had told a joint session of the Senate and Chamber of deputies that "none must doubt France's unshakable resolve to back her rights with strength worthy of herself." Both the president and premier lauded the motives that prompted President Roosevelt's peace appeal of April 14.

Daladier enunciated France's determination to resist force despite her readiness to grant "just and equal peace." He gave the legislature a review of accords reached with Greece, Rumania and Poland as well as those under negotiation with Soviet Russia and Turkey.

Urges Legislation For Peoples' Vote Before Sending Troops Abroad

Washington, May 11 (AP)—A life-long soldier, Maj. Gen. William C. Rivers, retired, strongly urged today the adoption of a constitutional amendment requiring a referendum of the people before American troops could be sent to war abroad.

General Rivers, in testimony before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, called the proposal "the most vital thing in the way of legislation now before Congress."

Dr. Charles C. Tansill, Fordham University professor, praised the proposal as a restraint "upon presidents whose rash acts might mean war." Rep. Caroline O'Day (D-NY) predicted that a year referendum system would eventually be established.

Such an amendment, she said would give "the man on the street who later becomes the man at the front, a chance to choose between death and a chance to live and improve his own country."

Roosevelt Plans Action if Coal Conference Fails

Another development here was a request from the CIO for the social security board to see to it that the states paid unemployment compensation to miners idle because of the shutdown.

Lee Pressman, CIO counsel, told reporters that compensation had been granted to miners in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Tennessee but that trial referees, in initial findings had denied compensation to miners in West Virginia, Kentucky and he believed, Ohio. These findings can be appealed to the courts.

Board officials, asked about Pressman's request, would not comment except to say that the board had no authority to interpret state laws.

The state laws are required, however, to conform to the social security law which provides that unemployment compensation may not be denied because of refusal to accept a position vacant because of a labor dispute.

12 Firemen Injured In Baltimore Fire

Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Twelve firemen were injured today in a spectacular fire that razed a 300-foot pier and warehouse containing 1,800 tons of licorice root.

The four-alarm blaze brought 175 firemen, land and water fire fighting equipment to the waterfront blanketed by fume-laden smoke.

Six firemen were injured when a wall collapsed. Others were struck by glass and overcome by fumes. Damages were not estimated.

Civil War Veteran Dies

Shadyside, O., May 11 (AP)—William M. Smith, 93, past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in West Virginia, died today at his home.

Smith, who witnessed Gen. Robert E. Lee's surrender at Appomattox in the Civil War, was born in Pennsylvania and moved to Sistersville, W. Va. He lived in Shadyside since 1921. He will be buried at Cuba, N. Y.

Officials Believe Taylor Murdered

Baltimore Expert Secured To Probe "Torch Death"

Elkton, Md., May 11 (AP)—States Attorney Ellis Rollins enlisted the aid of an expert criminal investigator from Baltimore police today as officials hinted at new clues in the "torch death" of Robert Christie Taylor, 22.

Rollins consulted with state police today and asked for the Baltimore investigator after the suicide of Mrs. Doris Taylor, 23, sister-in-law of young Taylor, spurred a probe into events preceding his death.

Taylor's body was found in the wreckage of his burned automobile near Rising Sun a week ago Tuesday. Mrs. Taylor, the mother of a small child, was fatally wounded last night by a shotgun blast.

She left a note addressed to Deputy Sheriff Robert Boyd, who has been investigating Taylor's death and who questioned Mrs. Taylor at her home Tuesday.

Boyd said that in the note Mrs. Taylor asserted she did not know who was responsible for her brother-in-law's death; that it has preyed on her mind and that she "couldn't stand it any longer."

Full text of the note, which was taken over by Rollins, was not disclosed.

A hint of unreported developments came from Dr. R. C. Dodson, of Rising Sun, former Cecil county coroner who has been assisting in the investigation of Taylor's death.

"Mrs. Taylor's note, while by no means direct evidence in the case, leaves some suggestions which bear looking into," Dr. Dodson said. "My theory's not shaken. I expect a break in the case between now and Saturday."

Dr. Dodson has maintained Taylor was murdered.

Workers Alliance Is Charged With Defrauding WPA

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Affidavits accusing Workers Alliance members of coercing relief workers, causing strikes on WPA projects and plotting a physical attack on a congressman went into the records today of the House committee investigating the WPA.

Much of the testimony dealt with the work relief situation around Reading, Pa., but the committee also delved further into WPA construction costs and practices in Tennessee.

Treasury department engineers attached to the committee testified they had information to show that WPA labor and materials were used to construct private driveways and roads leading off the so-called "farm-to-market" roads built by the WPA in Tennessee. Political preferences were evident in many such instances, they said.

Harry S. Barger, one of the investigators, said he had been reliably informed that sponsorship agreements had been forged in connection with three Nashville, Tenn., park projects. He also told of WPA employees forming a company, since dissolved, which rented equipment to the WPA on a number of projects in Tennessee.

Chris Doose, a committee investigator, gave the committee an account of unsuccessful agitation by some members of the Workers Alliance for use of violence to prevent Representative Moser (D-Pa.) from speaking at the Reading postoffice cornerstone-laying exercises next Saturday because he voted against increased relief appropriations.

When the committee heard that Eugene R. Kuhne fish technician of the Tennessee State Conservatory Department, had been fired after giving information to a committee investigator, it decided to subpoena Kuhne to ascertain the facts.

Retired Methodist Pastor Dies Day After Funeral of Wife

Sharon, Pa., May 11 (AP)—A retired Wesleyan Methodist pastor who collapsed at the funeral of his wife yesterday died today at his home at nearby Sandy Lake.

He was the Rev. Franklin Johnson Davis, 73, a former superintendent of the workingman's home in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Davis, a retired missionary worker, died Saturday in Salem, O.

Funeral services for Mr. Davis, who also was a trustee of the Allegheny Wesleyan conference and president of the board of the church home for boys in Pittsburgh, will be held Saturday.

During his long service in the church he held pastorates in Rochester, Titusville, New Castle and Indiana, Pa., Massillon, Barberton and Struthers, O., and Clarksburg, W. Va.

6,000 Kentucky Miners Return to Work under Newly Executed Contract

Central City, Ky., May 11 (AP)—An agreement returning 6,000 western Kentucky soft coal miners to the pits tonight was signed late today by operators and Ed. J. Morgan, president of the District 23, United Mine Workers of America.

Morgan said the agreement was for a two-year period starting April 1, 1939, and ending March 31, 1941. Morgan said the mines are located in Ohio, Muhlenberg, Hopkins, Union and Henderson counties, Kentucky.

The agreement, which he said was signed by 17 companies, includes the "union shop" clause. The wage and working condition clauses in the old contract which expired March 31 of this year were continued.

Under the agreement, he added, the U. M. W. A. was made the bargaining agent for the miners and miners must be union members to obtain employment.

It was more than her cooking . . .

Gee, I can taste those waffles yet. We always had 'em, every Sunday morning. I can see mother now, cooking them over the wood stove, all flushed and shining from the heat, and hear her say, "Goodness, I don't believe there are enough waffles in the world to fill you children up."

When we grew up and used to brag on her cooking, she'd say she guessed if she ever lost her knack for waffles, she'd lose her boys. I know she was joking about that. But just the same, this Mother's Day is going to give me a swell chance to show her it WAS more than her cooking—with the finest present I can find.

Split Beyond Repair

STRENUOUS EFFORTS are being made by certain so-called Democratic leaders to "restore harmony" in the party. Senator Prentiss Brown, of Michigan, has proposed a conference of his colleagues for that purpose; and Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader, is issuing pleas to "improve relations" among the Democrats.

These efforts are doomed to futility and merely serve to stress the wide cleavage that exists in the Democratic ranks. That rift cannot be healed by senatorial confabs. It is too wide, too deep and too fundamental.

Frank R. Kent, Baltimore Sun columnist, shows how sharply this division exists by classifying the two groups into which the party is divided and the opposite directions in which they are headed.

"On one side," Kent outlines, "are the regular Democratic leaders who are as bitterly opposed to the New Deal policies as any Republican. They do not regard the president as a Democrat. They believe he has betrayed the Democratic party, violated its basic principles, stirred up an unprecedented degree of class hatred and brought the nation to the brink of bankruptcy."

"On the other side are Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal subordinates, the CIO labor leaders, the professional liberals and the various radical agencies and organizations by which he is supported. The militant attitude of these is that all orthodox Democrats are vicious reactionaries who care more for a balanced budget than for 'human rights.'"

The facts of the situation are that both groups are growing in strength. The first group is gaining the support of popular favor. The second is strengthening itself on the inside. Recent moves by the White House in such matters as disappointing appointments of radicals and the truculent outgivings of Secretary Hopkins indicate that the left wingers have taken the president into camp. The recent "grapevine" news services emanating from Washington have for some time been reporting that the president has been once more captured by the so-called liberals of his kitchen cabinet and that he will continue veering positively to the left.

So the division appears to be entirely too great to give rise to any hope that the Democratic party can again be welded into a composite whole. It has been hopelessly wrecked by the man in the White House and is on its way out. The sooner it gets out the better for the country.

Strange Shifting

IF people's opinions swing like weather vanes in the breezes these days, there is good reason.

Political shifts in Europe and Asia during the last week or two are enough to unsettle the soundest mind. During the past years of Hitler's dominance on the continent the world became accustomed to an alignment of foreign powers which seemed stable even during the shifting of the European map and the mad race for power abroad.

Great Britain, France, the smaller Balkan countries seemed solidly lined up against Germany, Italy and Japan. Russia was always counted in on the side of the democracies. Hitler hated Moscow. Poland leaned toward Germany, hating Russia with fanatical zeal.

With bewildering suddenness the international picture has shifted during the past week or two. Japan is reported showing a decided preference for the democracies. Germany is reported holding out the olive branch to Russia. The Poles are leaning away from the threat of Hitler, seeking better relations with Stalin. What the effect of the definite military alliance between Italy and Germany will be on the smaller Balkan countries is a moot question. We are watching a kaleidoscope which changes its pattern with every slight jerk of the international machine.

Before the year is out we may come to accept without undue surprise an alliance between Great Britain and Germany, Japan and Russia in the same camp, Italy and France progressing hand in hand. Political expediency makes strange bed-fellows.

The naivete of the American citizen in these matters is almost pitiful. How have opinions or maintain them when the foundations on which they are based shift like quicksand? But the time will come when even the trusting heart of America will become used to the kaleidoscope. The changing pictures will bring nothing more than a sigh of resignation. We can't go on being surprised indefinitely, and the saturation point is near.

Stopping Becomes Difficult

ARE the huge government aids of housing not only to continue indefinitely but be largely increased year by year?

Proposals for this year's action, well advanced in both houses of Congress, make expansions notwithstanding the demand for retrenchment of federal spending all along the line. The House has passed and the Senate banking committee has approved a bill increasing the total of mortgages the Federal Housing Authority may guarantee from $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000. This is to give another billion for stimulating new construction, mainly homes, through FHA loans.

Also seemingly assured of enactment, a second plan doubles the total of loans the United States Housing Authority may lend to local governments, bringing the full sum to $1,600,000,000.

200, to finance government-constructed low-rent housing projects in the cities.

The loans do not entail immediate direct costs, though they add to an enormous debt the government has guaranteed, apart from its $40,000,000,000 of direct debt. The USHA projects carry a national subsidy, given to the cities to help them finance their parts. The present appropriation for this purpose is $28,000,000. A new bill by Senator Wagner fixes the sum for next year at $73,000,000. This is a $45,000,000 addition to the budget.

The New Deal's protection of home owners and encouragement of home building receive much support. They were emergency steps nevertheless which, now, seem to have added large permanent federal adjuncts. Such federal aid being given, substantial interests are dependent on them. In field after field, stopping becomes difficult or impossible.

Freezing Process

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE has declared, in one of its bulletins, that there is at least one phase of the president's reorganization plan that "deserves serious consideration." This is "the danger of imbedding permanently in the federal government structure agencies designed to be only temporary and which were created solely to meet an emergency."

That is quite true. The emergency business has long been overdue. We have numerous agencies which have long outlived their usefulness and which have been continued on the payroll largely for the purpose of supplying political rewards.

The blame for this continuance, however, does not rest primarily with the president but with the Congress. In neither the original bill nor the substituted reorganization bill was any provision made for the retention of existing services. But such a provision was inserted by way of an amendment during the course of the bill's passage through Congress. The amendment specifically prohibits the president from arranging, in any reorganization plan, for the suspension of any service now performed by the government. Hence the president in such reorganizations as he has proposed has merely transferred the functions of various agencies into a regrouping or merging with others, and doubtless he has done so gleefully.

That amendment robs the reorganization measure of its chief merit as an instrument of economy and serves to freeze a horde of temporary activities along with an army of useless hangers-on, into the governmental structure.

Striving for the Best

THE POEM which John G. Neihardt is writing may, or may not, be what his friends say will one day be called the great American epic, but there is one feature of his work which teaches an important lesson to all writers.

When The Epic of the West is finished it will be 15,000 lines long, longer than Vergil's Aeneid and more poetry than the average man reads in a lifetime. That, of course, has nothing to do with whether or not it will prove to be great poetry or mere versifying, but what interests us now, in advance of publication, is the report from the poet's workshop in St. Louis that the mammoth work is being done three lines a day, no more, sometimes less.

No one knows the secret of genius. There have been writers and composers and artists who have produced masterpieces in a burst of inspiration, in a great white heat; but for most of us the rule of Bufon and Carlyle holds good—genius is nothing else than a great aptitude for patience, hard work.

A three-line-a-day pace for a poet writing a piece of 15,000 lines is the habit of a man who refuses to produce anything that he doesn't believe is his best. Whatever may be our judgment of his poetry, we cannot help admiring the principle which governs his work.

Hitler now drinks an occasional glass of beer brewed specially for him with an alcoholic content of only one percent. Those who remember "near beer" will feel pessimistic about European peace.

The world is still waiting to reward that heroic scientist who will take the aftermath out of green onions.

Men's straw hats this summer, we read, will be oddly shaped and gaily colored. It looks like he who laughs last is really a she.

Is Everything Upside Down?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Everything is topsy-turvy. . . . Didn't you know that?

Yes, you did but you haven't put it into words and we often know the truth without knowing that we know it.

We are afraid because we run away. We think we run away because we are afraid, but that isn't true. . . . We face a roaring lion and our feet take us swiftly away from that place. . . . Then fear floods our being and we shiver. But until we fled we were NOT afraid.

We face a great peril and we plant our feet solidly and strike out boldly. Then, afterwards, we are brave. Something within us comes to our rescue, strengthens our arm, makes us more stubborn, gives us courage. . . . A gladness within us pours a strengthening elixir into our veins and we are twice the battling warriors we dreamed of being.

We love money before we get it. We want something else first; we want conflict, power, a testing of our strength. Money comes along and takes possession of us. Then we fall in love with its bright golden face and we are misers. . . . But we were misers before we ever had that money. . . . We are not arrogant because we have power. We were arrogant first and sought the food on which our arrogance had to feed.

Men are not wise because they have a great fund of knowledge. Many a man is wise who knows little that is fed to boys and girls in school. Many a child is wise before he knows even his letters.

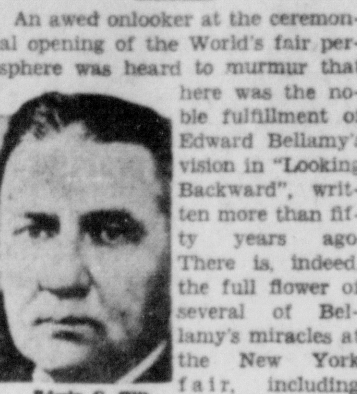

Women are not tender because their pity is stirred. They act gently toward the poor, the suffering, the betrayed and then their pity blooms like a flower. The tiger loves blood before he has sized his piteous prey, and the humble are gentle before they have sweetened their lives with humility.

Men act, then they give their reasons; they are themselves first, before they try to explain and justify themselves. Everything seems topsy-turvy but it is not really so. If the world seems awry and contradictory, it is because we, too often, are expecting to be admired for our marvelous ability to stand on our heads.

Life is NOT wild and frenetic; it is serene and steady enough for those who are not trying to stand on their heads.

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

Not to belittle the ceremonial opening of the World's fair periscope was heard to murmur that here was the noble fulfillment of Edward Bellamy's vision in "Looking Backward," written more than fifty years ago.

There is, indeed, the full flower of several of Bellamy's miracles at the New York fair, including "music coming through the walls of a house at all hours of the day and night, regulated by turning a lever."

But it is not only the miracle-workers who build the "World of Tomorrow." With a perilous descent to anti-climax, one ventures to note that the new non-skid hot dog seems to rival television in popular interest. And it is probably a safe bet that the ingenious new "flat hot" is fattening more bank-rolls than much of the showy technical magic of the show of shows.

Cap-Sheaf of Progress
Not to belittle the latter, our scientific triumphs are the cap-sheaf of progress and are fittingly emblazoned in fireworks and the great batons of light which lace and lattice the heavens above the fair grounds.

But the unsung hot dog—chien chaud, as they now call it appreciatively around the French exhibit—filters into the human side of the news, along with such irrelevant but tremendously important matters as that long desired extra inch on a Chinaman's shirt tail. Statisticians are again figuring that it would just about lift that surplus of 11,000,000 bales of cotton from Uncle Sam's neck. Beyond doubt such trivia will count as heavily in the world of tomorrow as they do in the world of today. A fat book could be written on what the feminine insistence on silk stockings has done to world economy.

Cause for Wonder
Getting back to the fair and its cuisine, ranging from hot dogs to Poulard Supreme, Swedish Smorgasbord and Swill Choucroute Bernoise, one wonders whether Grover Whalen and his high-hatted conferees will ever be the same after their adventures in international cookery, having to eat so many and so diversified luncheons and dinners. It had a dreadful effect on Charles Vogelsang, who did most of the glad-handing for the San Francisco Fair in 1916.

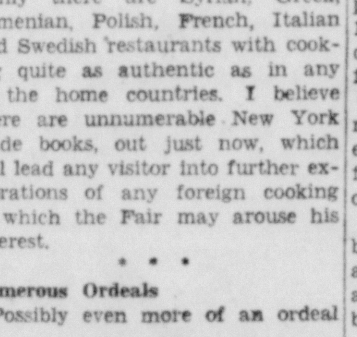

After it was all over, Mr. Vogelsang would drop into the Fly Trap or the Poodle Dog for lunch and say, absent-mindedly, "bring me a bowl of borsch and a few Albanian kebabs and a dash of soufflé aux framboises." When they carried out the fainting waiter, he shook himself, came to and ordered some pork and beans.

Stubborn Case
"It was terrible," he said. "I had developed a stubborn case of international stomach. I found I had come to depend on such fixings as chlodnik, crawfish tails, and Gschmaltzes Rosti. But they didn't seem satisfying and I would move on somewhere and get a steak and fried potatoes. I suppose it was something like the trouble people have when they go to Europe and can't shake off foreign languages."

They tell me, however, that the American populace is pretty much at home with foreign cookery, especially in the larger cities, and that there are few dishes served at the fair, either at official functions or at the restaurants of the various nations, which haven't been billed at the foreign restaurants of New York for quite a few years. Certainly there are Syrian, Greek, Armenian, Polish, French, Italian and Swedish restaurants with cooking quite as authentic as in any of the home countries. I believe there are unnumbered New York guide books, out just now, which will lead any visitor into further explorations of any foreign cooking in which the Fair may arouse his interest.

Numerous Ordeals
Possibly even more of an ordeal

For those building a new home, or contemplating rewiring of their old one, the publication, "How to Plan Your Electric Wiring" should prove interesting and helpful. This small leaflet was prepared by Albert V. Krewatch, specialist in agricultural engineering for the University of Maryland Extension Service, and contains many practical and useful hints on uses of electricity in the home. The publication may be obtained free of charge by writing Mr. Krewatch in care of the Extension Service at College Park.

The index of prices received by Maryland farmers on April 15 was three points higher than a month before, but seventeen points below the same date a year ago, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service. The ratio of prices received to prices paid advanced three points but was still below a year ago.

THE PERILS OF AUNT DEMOCRACY

More Confidence Needed To Protect America against Heavy Competition

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, May 11.—The most pregnant thought I have read in many weeks, the most full of meaning for America, if America can be made to understand, is contained in three short sentences by Columnist John T. Flynn. I quote:

In the world today there is a great competition going on. It is a contest between three economic systems—the Communist, the Fascist and the democratic-capitalist systems. . . . The victory will go to the system which succeeds within its own borders.

By a system succeeding, is meant succeeding in an economic sense, as Mr. Flynn explains, the system will win which brings to its people the highest degree of economic contentment. This test of winning can be expressed briefly and roughly as:

Two Stories

From the Altoona, Pa., Tribune

About three months ago our government made much publicity for itself by launching what was considered an appeasement program designed to encourage private enterprise.

Practically the only thing that has been accomplished has been to "freeze" social security payroll taxes at present levels rather than permit them to rise next year.

So our budget remains badly unbalanced and the appeasement has been practically in name only.

In Canada the budget remains unbalanced, too, but the government there yesterday took a decided step to encourage plant expenditure. A specific move will permit a corporate tax deduction of 10 per cent on cost of new plant construction or of better of existing facilities.

The country to the north of us resembles our own in practically every respect. It is scarcely different from ours as sections of our own country are different.

If Canada with an unbalanced budget can still appease business and permit it to expand through a reduction of taxes why can't it be done here?

A Plea for Peace And Security

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., May 12.—I am a reader (because of her long experience and acute observation, I have sometimes used her letters as "guest columns" without her consent and frequently with an unusual reader response.

"I never saw more discouragement and misery in my life. I have seen plenty. People can stand much of this kind of thing—especially experienced people. They feel that it is better to end sometime because it always has. But when will this end? It is in its tenth year.

"One reason for so much patience and long-suffering is so many promises from Washington. We thought we had a new power that could save us. Now we fear that our new power had made our condition—bad as it was—worse than ever."

Hard on Pridelul

"The most hopeless thing is the people who are proud enough to want to take care of themselves and their families, by working and asking help from nobody, seem to be the only kind of people who can make a living. They see that the people who are secure are those who never have cared very much about what they were doing for themselves. They can get at least a living by simply throwing up their hands. In other kind somehow suspect they are sacrificing and straining not to take care of themselves but of these others as well.

"How long will they be content? More and more people are saying 'Oh what's the use.' When enough say that will there be more people to take care of than people to be the caring? Then where will we be?"

None More Disheartening

"I am old enough to remember every period of hard times since the Civil war. None was more disheartening than this. More people are losing their homes through foreclosure than I have ever seen many to the government. It is like Pharaoh taking over everything that the Egyptians owed in the days of Moses (if I think she means Joseph because everybody was on relief). "On top of all this comes this fear of war and of our sending what we have left into it. I don't know anybody in these parts who isn't afraid of that or who doesn't believe that and who doesn't say any such thing, it will be the end of us."

"I have known many people of many races. I am sure that in Germany and Italy as well as here in England or Russia the poor people must think just as we do. The must fear what we fear and what we hope. I believe that, almost as one people, the people of every country don't want war. It is a tiny handful of crazy leaders, who threaten what little chance the people of the world have left for peace and comfort."

Through Religion

"People can't speak through the governments. But who can't speak through their religions? Every church of every creed should set aside the same single week to end in a peace this greed and hate, it would sound straight up. God an almost unanimous vote. "no" against their dangerous leaders and against war from the whole human race. Even if God didn't answer directly, wouldn't that teach the leaders that all people are against them? Wouldn't that be enough? Why wouldn't it be better than this dangerous diplomatic hodge-podge? Why not try it?"

Has Something There

Why not indeed? Yes, my guest columnist is a 84-year-old mother, not intentionally writing for publication. While she is deeply religious and devout believer in the power of prayer, she has no idea that you can pray for rain tonight and it will pour tomorrow. There is much more that in her suggestion, I think, has something there.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Safety Versus Greed

From the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Passage by the Senate, 45 to 2, of the bill placing a state-wide ban on the use of fireworks, except display under expert supervision, represents an important advance in the responsibility and regard for humanity. Earlier the House had passed a similar bill by 169 to 8.

It is unnecessary again to review the casualties and property destruction of the "old-fashioned Fourth of July" children blinded and crippled for life as well as those killed. No at this late day it is necessary to review the great gains for safety made in Pittsburgh and the many other cities that banned the unsupervised use of fireworks in celebration.

It is pertinent, however, to point out that this campaign for safety was finally reduced to a bare contest between public safety and greed in the traffic of fireworks. Several previous attempts to ban the fireworks had made state-wide were defeated, but this time the victory for safety appears to be virtually complete.

Instructor Says Islands Have Many Wonderful Things

Huntington, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Violets which grow in clumps six feet high, more than 200 other rare botanical species, and a belief that Hawaii is "so awe-inspiring that its wonders never can be expressed adequately" were brought here by Louis Williams, a former Marshall college student.

Williams, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, was an instructor at the University of Hawaii for a year while working for his master's degree. His search for rare plants led him to the little-known islands of the Pacific group—Islands, he said, which are barred to the usual tourist because of a fear of contamination of the simple life of the natives.

Some of the things which he found out about the islands, and which he detailed in a recent assembly address at Marshall.

The Universal language is pidgin English, a mixture of English, Hawaiian and Japanese. The correct pronunciation of the islands is "Hah-va-hee." If a newcomer says "haw-wa-yah," according to Williams, the old-timers always interrupt with a quick: "Fine, thank you, and how are you?"

The Hawaiian language is a spoken language only, having no alphabet, but the words may be written by the use of the five vowels and nine consonants: h, k, l, m, n, p, r, v, and w.

Poi, the most popular food on the islands, "tastes like flour and water mixed with vinegar."

Grass skirts, says Williams, never have been worn on the islands. "The so-called grass skirts are really made of the shredded leaves of a plant, a member of the lily family and are as serviceable as the usual cloth skirt."

The favorite pastime of the natives on the thousand of remote islands is swimming. "And what wonderful swimmers almost all of them are!"

"Most of my students in the University of Hawaii classes were Japanese," said Williams, "and what brilliant students they were. Students of other races find it almost to compete with the Japanese, at the island schools."

Bolivia Arranges An Exchange of Goods with Berlin

La Paz, Bolivia, May 11 (AP)—Bolivia has arranged for the barter of oil and other raw materials for 4,000,000 marks of German manufactures, the minister of mines, Dionisio Foyanini, has announced.

The government took over ownership and operation of Bolivian oil fields after cancelling a Standard Oil concession March 13, 1937.

Foyanini said Bolivia, "since August, 1938 had been negotiating for compensation mark credits with various German firms through the Credit Anstalt in exchange for Bolivian minerals, hides and some petroleum. On Feb. 2, 1939, Bolivia was granted the credit of 4,000,000 marks."

(The nominal value of the mark is 40 cents, but in barter arrangements its value varies.)

The minister said the credit obtained in Germany would be used "in accordance with the necessities of the Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales (the government oil company)."

The Bolivian Supreme Court on March 8 rejected a suit by the Standard Oil Company attacking legality of Former President David Toro's cancellation of its oil field concessions, valued unofficially at $17,000,000.

Editorial comment at the time said the decision allowed Bolivia to "enter into full legitimate use of her petroleum domain."

The company hopes to boost production to more than 6,250 barrels daily, of which about 2,500 barrels would be intended for export.

Variety of Ways To Control Weeds

Problem of Caring For Lawns Discussed by Horticulturist

College Park, May 11—The problem of eliminating weeds from the lawn is primarily one of providing conditions favorable to the maximum growth of grass for if the lawn can be thickened up, the weeds will have a harder time getting established and even if they do appear in the lawn they must still compete with the vigorously growing turf, says Walter R. Ballard, specialist in horticulture for the University of Maryland Extension Service. He points out that conditions which are most favorable for growth of lawn grass are proper drainage, correct fertility, physical damage and reaction of the soil, and, to some extent, climate.

The lawns that have already been established it is not always feasible desirable to tear up the sod in order to remedy the soil condition. In this case other methods must be resorted to in order to destroy the objectionable weeds. One of the best methods is known as "spotting." "Spotting" is quite effective with weeds as plantain. It consists of putting a small amount of sulphate of ammonia, or other chemical, directly on the offending weed and burning it so severely that it is destroyed. This method is more rapid than digging out the plants and works fairly well even with dock and dandelion, although cutting off the tops and applying a few drops of kerosene may be found more effective in dealing with these latter plants. Mr. Ballard also points out that chickweed may be controlled with iron sulphate, two pounds to the gallon, if this spray is put on in the fall while the seedlings are still small.

He states that the arsenate of lead treatment that is being used on the control of the Japanese beetle, has also proved effective in discouraging the growth of crab grass.

Miami, Fla., May 11 (AP)—Smiling Red Snite, Jr., who could write a book entitled "Seeing the World on an Iron Lung," will entrain today on the first leg of a pilgrimage to the shrine of miracles Lourdes, France—a journey that required months of detailed planning.

CONTENTS: that "general overhauling"; famous pirate doctors; world's shortest health act, etc.

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We are supposed to write a column which contains 500 words daily. Some days we would like to write a thousand words—or rather, we pick a subject that can be covered only in a thousand words (we never want to write a thousand words)—and some days we think of a subject which peters out in about 100 words. So we are going to assemble some of the short ones, and ask your indulgence if they do not seem to have much continuity.

Concerning the often-urged plan to have a "general going over" once a year just to see if anything is the matter, we like the remark about the family doctor: "With a few questions, a snappy physical examination, he recognizes measles or erysipelas or acute heart failure. He agrees with Mackenzie that when one wishes a flat tire fixed, one resists the advice of the garage man that a thorough overhauling of the car is necessary."

Another point. We have heard recently of a surgeon who said that if he charged only a thousand dollars for an operation, he would lose money. This was in association with a case in which he sewed up the cut in a child's face and charged the parents $3,000. Just along that line, it is not entirely surprising that some of the most famous pirates in history were doctors, notably Captain Blood. On every pirate ship, according to Dr. Phillip Gosse's learned treatise, "History of Piracy," there was a surgeon who had a regular share in the loot. None of them ever showed any interest in the peaceful practice of his profession, but preferred the prospect of adventure and of the speedy acquisition of wealth under the "Jolly Roger."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Panama has the shortest and yet most comprehensive Health Act in the world. It reads: "Anything which is or may be dangerous to human life or health shall be abolished."

Tact is a valuable asset in life and particularly in a physician. It consists, as Dr. Da Costa, of Philadelphia said, in telling a squint-eyed man that he has a fine, firm chin.

Mark Twain said that he had achieved the age of 70 by adhering strictly to a schedule in life that would be fatal to anybody else. He made it a rule to go to bed only when he couldn't find anybody to sit up with, and he never got up until he had to. He stuck to food that didn't agree with him until one or the other won out, and he made

Moser Refuses to Parole Nine, Gives Freedom to Youth

Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Maryland's new parole commissioner, Herman Moser, 39-year-old Baltimore attorney, declined applications from nine prisoners and approved one today, at his first hearings since he took office May 1.

The youthful commissioner, who will head the state's new department of parole and probation after June 1, served notice convicts' prison records and prior convictions would play important parts in his decisions.

Eight of the nine applications turned down came from prisoners with bad criminal institution records. The ninth, Moser said, received a light sentence in comparison with the crime and should serve the full term.

Lone prisoner recommended was Lowndes Morsell, Calvert county negro youth, serving a year for larceny.

Commissioner Moser issued a statement of principles when he took the bench, asserting he believed purpose of parole was primarily protection of the community. Strict and adequate supervision of paroled convicts must be the basis of a good parole system, he explained.

Better Grapes Sought

Buenos Aires (AP)—Competition of South African fruit growers may give grapes of super-quality to consumers of grapes in the United States. The Ministry of Agriculture, noting the increased shipment of grapes from Africa directly to North America has ordered special attention, particularly as to size and quality, given to Argentine grapes designated for shipment northward.

Prentice Turned Over To Penna. Authorities On Robbery Charge

Annapolis, Md., May 11 (AP)—Governor Herbert R. O'Connor today ordered Hughie Prentice of Baltimore turned over to Pennsylvania authorities on a charge of robbing the Eagles' home at McSherrytown, Pa., of cigarettes and liquor on March 24.

John B. Allwine, who was sleeping in the home, said he recognized Prentice as one of four armed men. Mrs. Sarah Albert, Baltimore and Robert Joyner, a cab driver, said Prentice was with them in Baltimore the night of the robbery.

Governor O'Connor, after the extradition hearing said there seemed to be reason to send the man to Pennsylvania and that it would work no undue hardship as he would be taken only one and a quarter hours distance away. Prentice was turned over to Pennsylvania State Policeman Joseph F. Bushey.

Five Candidates Give Ward Party Nod for Congress

Withdraw from Race in First Congressional District

Salisbury, Md., May 11 (AP)—The sudden withdrawal of five candidates for the Democratic nomination in the first congressional district contest has assured selection of State Senator David J. Ward of Wicomico county by the State Central Committee at Baltimore tomorrow.

Four "favorite son" candidates from scattered counties on the Eastern Shore followed today the lead of Senator Dudley G. Roe of Queen Anne's county, who said last night he was withdrawing from the contest "in the interests of party harmony."

When announcement of the additional withdrawals was made, Ward said:

Ward Expresses Thanks

"To stand by and see such honorable and distinguished gentlemen as Senator Roe, Senator Johnson, Senator Squier, Former Senator Higgins and Mr. Balch withdraw from the contest in the first congressional district of Maryland in my behalf causes me to think that it is possible I have been too selfish in this case."

"However, if it is their desire to give me their place in this field, then I accept their offer in the same spirit in which they present it."

"To be named as the Democratic party's nominee for congress in the first congressional district of Maryland is an honor that I will cherish for life."

Will Succeed Goldsborough

The election, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Sen. T. Alan Goldsborough, will be held June 6.

Roe, who has been regarded as one of the ranking candidates for the nomination, announced his decision last night. Eastern Shore political observers asserted the veteran legislator, an administration stalwart in the last legislature, "just didn't have enough votes on the Shore to get the nomination."

F. Kirk Maddrix, state's attorney for Somerset county, announced last night he was a candidate for the Republican nomination. He is the only candidate to declare himself thus far.

Naval Officer Held In Theft of $30,000

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Coast guard headquarters have announced that pay clerk Joseph A. Harris, a warrant officer attached to the cutter Chelan, one of three American cutters in the international keelberg patrol, had been arrested at Moncton, N.B., on charges of taking $30,000 from his ship.

New High-Test OXYDOL is a new-type "no-scrub" soap, containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that multiplies its white-washing power—yet keeps it safe for washable colors, fabrics and hands.

Tested against less efficient bar and package soaps, by a leading independent laboratory, new High-Test OXYDOL does these amazing things:

(1) Washes white clothes up to 25% whiter than even well-known, advertised soaps that lack the new miracle ingredient High-Test OXYDOL contains.

(2) Gives up to TWICE the suds. Rich, lively suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet is so SAFE that even cotton prints given the equivalent of more than a full year's normal washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed sparkling, fresh.

Rapid in action, High-Test OXYDOL soaks dirt loose in as little as 10 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. Ends those weary hours once spent rubbing away at a washboard. Saves clothes from the hard scrubbing that wears them quickly out.

High-Test OXYDOL is economical, too. One cup of it goes up to one-fourth again as far as an equal amount of these less efficient soaps.

Oumansky Was Charged d'Affaires in Washington Embassy

Moscow, May 11 (AP)—The official news agency, Tass, announced today that the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet had appointed Constantin Oumansky, counselor and chargé d'affaires of the embassy in Washington, as ambassador to the United States.

Oumansky has been in charge of the embassy in Washington since Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky returned from the United States last June. Troyanovsky made his first public appearance since returning to Moscow, on March 3 at a luncheon given by Tass.

Troyanovsky left Washington about the time Joseph E. Davies, former United States ambassador to Moscow, left here last June 10 to take his post as ambassador to Belgium.

(President Roosevelt sent the nomination of Laurence A. Steinhardt as ambassador to Moscow March 13 this year.)

Constantine A. Oumansky was born in 1902 in Nikolae in the Ukraine. He attended high school and university in Moscow where his studies were temporarily interrupted by the revolution of 1917.

In 1918, shortly after the revolution, while continuing his education, he worked on Moscow newspapers, and in 1922 joined the staff of the Russian telegraph agency, subsequently known as Tass and by 1925 was chief of the foreign department of that official news agency.

From 1926 to 1927 he was manager of the Tass bureau in Paris.

As a correspondent, Oumansky travelled extensively in Europe and the near east, gaining a first-hand view of political conditions in many countries, and meeting many leading political personalities.

Marshall Goering To Visit Franco

Valencia, May 11 (AP)—Informed sources said last night Field Marshal Hermann Goering, of Germany, was expected here before noon tomorrow for his first visit to Spain and would be the honor guest of Generalissimo Franco at a Nationalist air show of 600 planes at Barajas, near Madrid, on Friday.

"The official German news agency, DNB, in Berlin announced that Goering was making a private cruise in the Mediterranean and ridiculed reports he was going to Spain.

(German embassy sources in Madrid said the field marshal would spend only a few hours at Valencia and would not see General Franco.)

American Cotton Subsidy Plan Is Given Setback

Washington, May 11 (AP)—A plan for a government subsidy to increase exports of American cotton suffered a setback in the Senate when the chamber refused to suspend its rules in order to attach a rider dealing with the program to the pending $1,281,000,000 agriculture department appropriation bill.

The plan was a modification of the original Roosevelt administration proposal for subsidies to facilitate sales abroad of the United States' huge cotton crops. After some southern senators had vehemently objected that under the Roosevelt proposal, huge portions of the 11,000,000-bale supply which the government holds as security for loans would be released on the market and drive down the price for new crop cotton, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) stepped forward with a compromise.

Under his proposal, the subsidies would apply only to the forthcoming 1939 crop. He asked the Senate today to suspend its rules to approve this form of subsidy but the chamber refused, 37 to 36. A two-thirds majority is required to suspend Senate rules.

The adverse vote left the cotton export proposal in an admittedly muddled status. Both critics and opponents of the bounty plan conceded that existing law and some $50,000,000 of funds already in the farm bill would enable the administration to ignore the Senate vote, if it wished, and carry out the plan anyway.

Senator George (D-Ga.), one of the outspoken opponents of the subsidy, said "Secretary Wallace probably could go ahead anyway but the subsidy would be limited to a very small amount of cotton."

Because the cotton dispute was not decided until near the Senate's quitting hour, Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) abandoned an attempt to obtain Senate passage today of the record-breaking agricultural measure.

Bread is used by watchmakers as a "wiper" to remove oil and particles which occur in the manufacture of their product.

In 1889 toys were bought "to keep children quiet." In 1939 they are designed for educational value as well as fun.

General Payment for Timber Land in W. Va. Sought Would Replace Taxes from Reforestation Tracts

ington, May 11 (P)—The ent, says Representative
P-Miss), should pay eleven Virginia counties $90,219 a replace tax revenues from required for reforestation has introduced a bill to the federal government to ally to each county three of the actual purchase land acquired in that under the reforestation and s-Jones farm tenancy acts.

ing the measure, he in-the Congressional Record
ent disclosing the governbought 16,740,911 acres one states, and Puerto the reforestation program,
$2,445,714 for them. He did the lands purchased under any act.

est Virginia, Colmer said,
ment has acquired $91,089
a cost of $3,007,325 for rem.

Will Benefit Nation
tionably," Colmer said, on the part of the govern-going to rebound to the of the country as a x x

the provisions of the pres-tation by which the govquired these lands the coun-to receive twenty-five per the gross receipts from tim-other assets sold by the rvice from the lands.

Difficulty about this is that stances the gross income sales is negligible, due to that the lands were largely of all timber at the time acquisition by the govern-

provision under statute ample remuneration to ities in twenty-five years after the timber had debut the immediate diffithat there is no provision the ad interim period be-timber reaches a meratus."

Guarantee for Counties a bill would guarantee the three per cent of the purchase of the land, with the
that half these payments returned to the governenever the counties' return timber sales in sub-years exceeded the guarantee per cent minimum.
also would cancel the law's provision restricting use of receipts from the reforested lands to expenditures for roads and schools, and would permit distribution to the counties "in such manner as the state legislature may direct."

Following is Colmer's tabulation of reforestation purchases in West Virginia, showing the gross acreage of counties in which purchases have been made, the number of acres acquired, and the cost. Colmer said he assumed land approved for purchase on June 30, 1938, had been acquired. The tabulation does not include lands bought under the tenancy program:

Mayor's Back Pay Causes City Worry

San Luis Obispo, Calif. (P)—For 22 years L. S. Sinsheimer was mayor of this little city at a salary of $500 a year, but he never cashed his paychecks. Just keeping them as souvenirs, he said.

Now youngish Fred C. Kimball has run against the veteran official and beaten him 2-to-1. The new administration is a little worried. They wonder if former Mayor Sinsheimer is going to cash his checks.

Republican "Boss" Faces Federal Charges

Newark, N. J., May 11 (P)—A federal grand jury culminated a year-long government investigation
by indicting Enoch L. (Nocky)
Johnson, Atlantic county Republican "boss", on income tax evasion charges.

Indicted with the 56-year-old Atlantic City resort figure, famed for his lavish spending and colorful speech, were Former County Judge
Joseph A. Corio, Anthony P. Miller, president of the construction firm of Anthony P. Miller, Inc., Japhet
Garwood, secretary and assistant treasurer of the corporation, and the contracting firm itself.

LaFollette Wants
Referendum before
An Offensive War

Seeks to Secure Legislation Putting Choice Up to People

Washington, May 11 (AP)—A new drive has been started in the Senate to supplement neutrality legislation with a requirement that the American people must give consent in a referendum before American troops can be sent into action on foreign soil.

A judiciary subcommittee began hearings on this proposal, with Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) expressing his support in language that reminded many listeners of the night more than 20 years ago when his father and predecessor in the Senate spoke for hours against American entry into the World War.

"History proves," La Follette said today "that the legislative branch of our government cannot prevent measures from being taken which lead to war. Congress has no veto power in practical effect."

Against Present Policy

Congress can act in such circumstances, he said, only after the foreign policy of the current administration has led to a demand by the president for a declaration of war. Then, it acts, he added, "with cheers, mixed with epithets and howls of derision against those few men who may oppose" declaring war.

Only minor changes in the wording distinguished the referendum proposals from the Ludlow amendment to the constitution which was defeated in the House last year by only eleven votes.

LaFollette said that if, as administration spokesmen contend, their policy of helpfulness to Great Britain in the present European situation holds no likelihood of taking America into a European war, they should support his referendum proposal, for it would "buttress" their position.

Veto Power for People

In addition to LaFollette, two other witnesses urged approval of the plan. Morris L. Ernst, New York attorney, said it was a "logical development" of the democratic processes. Rose Wilder Lane, author, said it was "a veto power given to the people on the question of fighting an aggressive foreign war."

LaFollette's testimony turned at once to the opposition which has been expressed by administration leaders.

"There is nothing in the pending proposal," he said, "which will cripple any president in his conduct of our foreign policy so long as that policy is not to be implemented in the end by involving this nation in an offensive war overseas. x x x"

Seek To Remove
County Officials

Jefferson City, Mo., May 11 (AP)—Suits to oust Prosecutor W. W. Graves and Sheriff James L. Williams of Jackson county (Kansas City) have been filed in the Supreme Court by General Roy McKittrick.

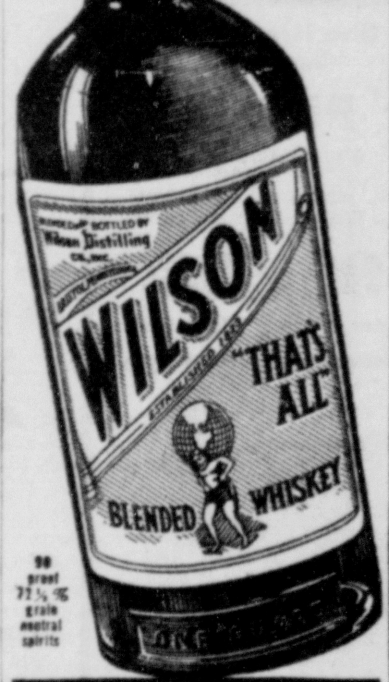

The suits charged the officials had neglected their duties.

McKittrick charged that Sheriff Williams had failed to enforce the laws against gambling and liquor violations. Graves is under indictment of a county grand jury on neglect charges.

Six Horses Will Probably Run in Preakness

Five Are Ready
To Fight It Out
With Johnstown

Six Starters Will Make
Gross Value of Big
Race $71,345

Gilded Knight Believed
To Have Best Chance To Beat Johnstown

By Mason Brunson
Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Only five horses appeared ready today to oppose the rugged Johnstown bid to cap his Kentucky Derby triumph with a victory in the historic Preakness stakes at Pimlico Saturday.

When the names of the Preakness starters are dropped into the entry book tomorrow morning, these probably will be the three year olds designated to oppose Wm. Woodward's colt in the $50,000 added Maryland classic.

Wheatley Stable's, Gilded Knight, W. L. Brann's, Challeon, Saratoga Stables, Volitant, King Ranch's, Clencia, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's, Impound, Gilded Knight and Johnstown will be coupled as an entry in the bet book as both are trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. Indications are that they will be backed into odds as short as 2 to 5.

Six starters, at a fee of $500 each, would make the gross value of the Preakness $71,345—the season's richest purse for three year olds.

In the 49th running Saturday, Johnstown will be meeting only one horse that opposed him in the Derby—Challeon, who trailed six lengths for second place.

The big bay son of Jamestown has not raced this season against the horse that promises to give him his greatest opposition—Gilded Knight, winner of the Chesapeake Stakes.

Lyons Bests Young Rich in Pitching Duel

Veteran Chicago Pitcher Allows Only Five Hits

Rich and Galehouse Gave up but Four Hits To White Sox

Defeat Knocks Boston Red Sox out of American League Lead

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—Veteran Ted Lyons hurled Chicago's White Sox to a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox today and brought about the first defeat of the season for rookie Woodrow Rich, 16 years his junior.

Lyons, 38 years old and in his 17th season with the White Sox, allowed five hits. After Ted Williams' single following two bases on balls gave Boston a run in the first inning, only two runners reached first base off the veteran knuckle baller until Jimmy Foss slammed out his fifth homer of the season in the ninth. Foss played the entire game despite a severe sinus attack. The Sox, meantime, collected only four hits off Rich and Denny Galehouse, who pitched the eighth inning.

Lively Battle Expected In Conn-Krieger Fight

BY JOHN LARDNER

New York, May 11.—There is nothing at stake in the fight between Billy Conn and Solomon Krieger this week except the over-the-weight middleweight championship of Baluchistan.

Krieger will not risk his world's middleweight championship of Seattle, Guam, and Washington, D. C. Conn will not risk his world's championship of Pittsburgh, Frederick Apostoli, the world's middleweight champion of New York state and the floor of the Indian Ocean, a mere spectator this time, will risk nothing whatever unless he walks across the street to Madison Square Garden against a red light.

In other words, the fight is just a fight, but well worth seeing, for the following reasons:

1. Conn is a fine fighter, a distant, hazy threat to Joe Louis, and the kind of workman who thrills the old-timers. They say there has been nothing like him since Jimmy Slattery was in his brief and blazing prime.

2. Solomon Krieger is rough and rugged and seldom takes a backward step.

3. This is a rubber match. Krieger and Conn have won one apiece.

4. On the preliminary card is Jackie Conn, William's young brother, who says that, if Billy fails to whale the tar out of Joe Louis, he will attend to the matter himself, a couple of years later.

"I don't know if Jackie can fight or not," says William Conn, "but he certainly aims to be the champion of the moment."

"That's correct," says Johnny Ray, the old lightweight, who manages the two confident Conn's. "That boy don't kid when he gets in there to spar with Billy. He tries to knock the big fellow's black off."

"The boys love each other, but they love each other like a couple of stage Irishmen. One is liable to bean the other with a dornick any minute. I don't care how close a couple of harps may be outside the ring, when they come together with gloves on, they want to kill each other—for the time being."

Billy thinks he's a City Slicker. "And Billy don't help the family feeling none. He gives the kid a terrible ribbing. He's been to New York and around a couple of times now, so he's a slicker, see, and he treats Jackie like a hayseed. The truth is, they're both hayseeds, but how they love to throw punches!"

"Billy kids Jackie, and Jackie won't take none of his guff. It's lucky I'm smart enough not to match 'em against each other. I'd kill two meal-tickets with one stroke."

One thing worries the Conn stable, Billy, the boy with the stabby left hand and true fighter's instinct, who beat Apostoli twice (though the second decision will always have a faint perfume of cheese for me), is too big to fight middleweights. The light heavy-weight division is a dead Indian. The heavyweight class is the place to make money, and the stable is worried about Billy's failure to gain weight. They fear he may be full-grown now, at 170 pounds.

"His weight oughta go up," mutters Johnny Ray. "He's got the build to be heavier. Oh, well, if he don't gain, we'll just go on belting these middies and light heavies. There ain't a bum south of 190 pounds that can lick my boy."

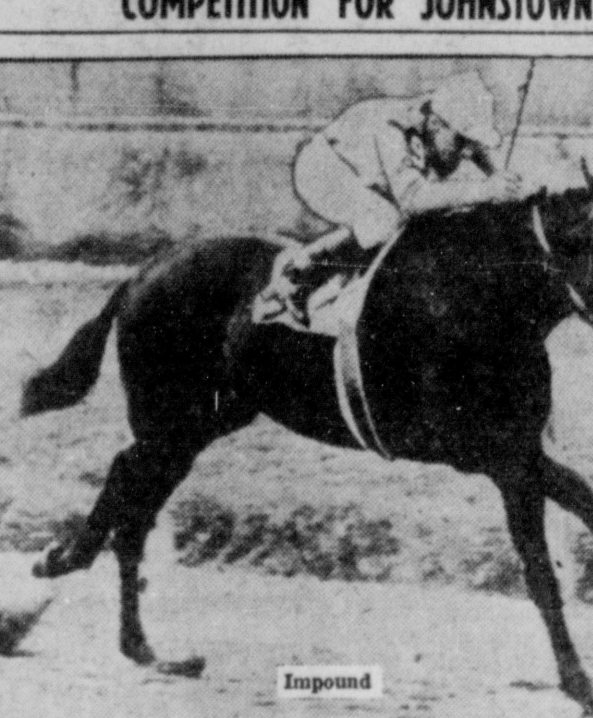

The Conn-Ray outfit derives a certain amount of encouragement from the case of James J. Braddock, an Irishman, constructed somewhat like Conn, who gained weight late in his fighting career. Braddock fought the light heavies and lighter heavyweights for years. He had already been left for dead once, at the age of 30, before he acquired the extra spread of shoulder and the natural, "strong" weight, that made him a full-fledged heavy the night he fought Jde Louis.

"Maybe we'll have to wait five, six years," says Mr. Ray. "If we do, we'll keep in shape and we won't sneer at no purses. We're young yet."

This is the famous managerial "We," for Mr. Ray is far from young. He doesn't have to be, with one crushing Conn for his right hand and one crushing Conn for his left.

COMPETITION FOR JOHNSTOWN

Impound

While Johnstown, Kentucky Derby winner, will be favorite to cop the rich Preakness at Pimlico, Baltimore, Saturday, May 13, several other horses will be given a fair chance to defeat the speedy Woodward colt. One is Impound, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's runner, who was not entered in the Derby.

Frostburg Beats Mt. St. Marys in 9th Inning 5-4

Harold Conrad, State College Freshman, Allows but Five Hits

Frostburg, May 11.—Harold Conrad, righthander, pitched the Frostburg State Teachers College baseball team to a 5-4 victory over the strong Mount Saint Mary's College of Emmitsburg. Conrad pitched hitless ball for three innings and allowed only one hit until the sixth, a homerun by De Bottis in the fourth with none on base and two men down.

Frostburg State scored two runs in the first inning when Byrnes reached first on an error by Flanagan, two singles, by Joe Wagner and Louis Conner, and another error by Flanagan.

Mount Saint Mary's took the lead at 3-2 in the sixth inning after Conrad had struck out the first two men to face him. With two out, De Bottis walked and scored on McElligott's double. Tony Apichella drove in the Mount's third run with a single to right.

J. Lawless hit for the circuit in the first of the ninth to end the Mount's scoring.

Trailing 4-2 going into the last half of the ninth inning, Frostburg

State staged a sensational rally which netted them three runs and the ball game. With two out and the count three and two on him, Conrad singled to right and Sacco walked. Conrad and Sacco crossed the plate on Mike Byrnes' single. State's winning run was driven in by Joe Wagner's fourth hit of the day.

Leary started on the mound for the Mounts and was replaced by Paul Lawless in the sixth.

Joe Wagner was the batting star of the day hitting safely four out of five times at bat, and driving across the winning tally.

Frostburg State will play a return game with Mt. St. Mary's at Echo Field on June 1.

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—Rookie Joe Haynes' seven-hit pitching and a three-run rally in the ninth inning gave the Washington Senators a 4 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers today and an even split in the two-game series.

Paul Trout, Detroit recruit, gave up 12 hits but pitched effectively in the pinches and stranded 13 Senators on the bases.

Feller First Hurler To Win Five Battles

New York, May 11 (AP)—Robert William Andrew Feller is a seasoned young man now and the first pitcher in either major league to win five games.

These two facts belong together because the Van Meter, Ia., speedster is working wonders for the Cleveland Indians on the king of hurling which for two years kept everybody going in circles—most on bases around the bases.

Prices Mixed in Dull Session of Stock Exchange; Close Unchanged

Traders Pessimistic Over Administration Attitude on Taxes

New York, May 11 (AP)—Stocks ambled over a circuitous route in today's market and the majority failed to do much either way. Prices were well mixed at the close.

Again the session was among the slowest in nearly a year, transfers for the five hours totalling only 400,190 shares against 692,290 the day before. That it was decidedly a two-minded market was indicated by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks finishing unchanged at 46.1.

Traders began the day with a tinge of pessimism over reports the administration would not approve tax revisions desired by industry. Subsequent assertions by Secretary Morgenthau that the treasury would ask Congress to remove business deductions from the tax laws was without much rallying effect on the market.

Some help was afforded by signs of a break in the soft coal tie-up.

On the business side, more talk of sporadic price cutting in automobile steels in the Detroit area served to keep the steels subdued.

Fractions to more than a point lower in the curb were Gulf Oil, American Gas & Electric and Creole Petroleum. Electric Bond & Share shaded higher.

Grand Prize of $1,000 Will Be Awarded At Poultry Congress

College Park, May 11—Housewives and others in Maryland have an opportunity to win cash prizes and demonstrate their favorite egg meal menus at the World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland, Ohio, July 28 to August 7, it is announced by Miss Margaret McPheeters, nutrition specialist at the University of Maryland and chairman of the State Consumer Program Committee.

Miss McPheeters states that there will be an elimination contest in which five best egg meals menus from Maryland will be chosen. These will be sent to Cleveland to compete with menus from other states. Women submitting the best twenty menus will be requested to appear at the World's Poultry Congress and prepare and demonstrate publicly their menus. A committee of nationally recognized food experts will select from the twenty the one individual entitled to the Poultry Congress award of $1,000 in cash.

The contest is open, according to Miss McPheeters, to all housewives, teachers, students and others, with the exception of officers and employees, and their families, of the national and state congress organizations.

Rules and regulations for the contest have been supplied to the home demonstration agent in each county, or may be obtained by writing to Miss Margaret McPheeters, University of Maryland, College Park. Other members of the Maryland Committee are Mrs. C. T. Fowler, Mrs. Arthur McCauley, Mrs. John T. Meyers, Baltimore; Mrs. Randall Spoerlein, New Windsor; Mrs. Xavier W. Garner, Springhill; Miss Margaret Smith, Easton; Miss Ethel Joy, Leonardtown; Mrs. T. E. Woodward, Miss Jessie Hinton, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, College Park.

It is emphasized by Miss McPheeters that all entries and all menus with recipes must be submitted to the State Consumer Program Committee not later than June 1, 1939. She urges all who are interested or desire further information to get in touch with their home demonstration agent, or a member of the State Committee, or to write to her at College Park.

It is not considered necessary for the girl to help her boy friend on with his topcoat, but if he seems to have difficulty in getting into it, there is no harm in her lending a hand.

Thrills Ride High
In New "Hopalong"

Outdoor action fans will find everything they want in the new "Hopalong Cassidy" romance, "The Frontiersman," which opens today at the Garden Theatre. It packs a swift-paced story in the best Clarence E. Mulford tradition, offers a grand background of some of the West's finest scenery and boasts a real "he-man" cast headed by such favorites as Russell Hayden.

As the title suggests, "The Frontiersman" deals with the efforts of hand-riding, straight-shooting ranchers to establish law and order in the cattle country of the untamed West. This time their chief adversary is the mayor of the small New Mexico town near which they live, who is secretly leader of a rustler gang and uses his office to cover up his illegal activities.

Bob Livingston is the only screen star in Hollywood who stars in both feature-films and westerns. For over three years Bob has divided his time between feature-pictures and western roles. He created the character of "Stony Brooke" in the famed "Three Mesquiteer" western series and has played the lead in such features as "The Night Hawk," "Orphans of the Street," "Federal Man Hunt" and many others. Livingston's latest role is that of the Lone Ranger in Republic's fast-moving serial "The Lone Ranger Rides Again," one episode of which is to be seen each Friday and Saturday at the Garden Theatre.

IT'S 3 BELLS FOR "ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL"

Henry Fonda and Loretta Young share top billing with Don Ameche who plays the inventor of the telephone in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," opening tomorrow at the Strand Theatre. Fonda is seen as Bell's assistant, Thomas A. Watson, while Loretta Young plays the woman who inspired the inventor in this dramatic 20th Century-Fox production.

Bob Baker at Best In Fast, Wild Western

Dare-devil riding, a feud, a rodeo, gunfights, a love triangle and some new cowboy melodies have all been happily combined in Bob Baker's latest Universal production, "Honor of the West," showing today at the Embassy Theatre.

Few western film stories have seemed to offer so much in the way of speedy dramatic entertainment. Based upon actual wild-west incidents in which cattle rustlers ran afoul of the law, "Honor of the West," is declared to provide the interesting cinema material of his screen career.

Baker will be seen as the "Singin' Sheriff" who places personal loyalty ahead of his official pledge. In the story by Joseph West, Bob finds himself in the middle of a romantic problem, a deadly cattle-man's feud and a contest between law and crime from which there seems to be no escape.

When James "Hambone" Robinson, sixteen-year-old comedian, who supports Gordon Jones and Marsha Hunt in "The Long Shot," top feature on the current bill at the Embassy Theatre, gets assignment in pictures it doesn't mean excuse from high school. Instead, school comes to him on the set and a special teacher appointed by the Los Angeles Board of Education sees to it that a screen working day shall not interfere with young Robinson's education.

Others who support the leading pair include Harry Davenport, Tom Kennedy, C. Henry Gordon, George Meeker, George E. Stone, Jason Robards and Claire Rochelle.

"Dodge City" Made
To Top "Robin Hood"

When a year ago film critics greeted Warner Bros. "The Adventures of Robin Hood" with as overwhelming a barrage of praise as has ever been accorded a motion picture, they added that it was not possible to make a more colorful or more spectacular adventure picture. Only "Dodge City" can provide an answer. If "Robin Hood" was pretty close to fiction, "Dodge City," starting tomorrow at the Liberty, is pretty close to fact, and it is all the more extraordinary and exciting thereby.

Most Americans who know their history of the pioneer West are familiar with stories of Tombstone and Deadwood, Wichita and Abilene, San Antonio and Santa Fe, and all the rest. But few are more than slightly acquainted with the most hair-raising town of them all—Dodge City, Kansas. In all the West of that period, so aptly described as "wild and woolly," Dodge City was the roughest, toughest, shootin'est outpost—that a visiting journalist described as the "bibulous Babylon of the Western frontier."

The entire action of the film takes place in the stop-over of railroad men in Dodge City. It begins in the

Union Check-Off Hit as 'Racket' In C. of C. Talk

New York Columnist Plays System as 'Crooked and Immoral'

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—George Sokolsky, New York columnist, said before the State Chamber of Commerce today that if the coal operators' representatives again agree to a check-off of union dues "you will deserve what you get."

Sokolsky, speaking at the opening luncheon of the two-day convention, termed the check-off of union dues "crooked and immoral and depriving man of his rights by making membership in an organization the only means of livelihood."

Terms Check-off A 'Racket'

Speaking particularly to coal men present, the columnist added: "If your representatives in New York again agree to the check-off system, you deserve what you will get, seizure of private enterprises by the government, destruction of property and elimination of private enterprise with the government taking it over."

Sokolsky contended the government is encouraging the check-off which he further termed a "racket."

Richard Harte of Parkersburg, Chamber of Commerce president, presided at the sessions at which the state's business men heard leaders present their views of West Virginia's industrial scene.

Former Governor John J. Cronwell, general counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, led off with a declaration that any successful attempt to put the railroads through a bankruptcy "wrecker" will be a start on the road to government ownership.

Government Ownership Threatened

"Abandon attempts to restore the value of railroad securities which it is reasonably possible to salvage," Cronwell said. "Use the 'wrecker' process to wipe out all the stockholders and many of the bondholders and where will railroad capital come from in the future? From government alone. That would mean government ownership."

Cronwell declared that pending railroad proposals tending toward bankruptcy schemes for railroads constitute a "ruinous policy" for everyone.

"To destroy capital, investments, the people's accumulated savings, by law or by public policy, is just as ruinous as to destroy them by war, fire or flood," he added.

Sokolsky, who bluntly declared he was making a political speech, said after referring to the possibilities of government operation:

Plays Government Operation

"If you want to see what effect government operation has on industry I refer you to the railroads which never have recovered."

He urged the Chamber of Commerce to make a study of the TVA power project, contending its adverse effect on the coal industry "will spread down to every worker and property owner."

The speaker further urged that everything be done to keep out of a European war, saying "we went to the last war to save democracy for the world. The other countries got Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin; we got the depression and the CIO."

Edward Offutt Named To Head New Golf Club

Recently-Organized Group To Pay City $360 for Use of Course

Oakland, May 11.—At a meeting of those interested in the formation of a golf club D. Edward Offutt was named president; Ira J. Bosley, vice-president; Foster D. Bittle, secretary, and Delbert Davis, treasurer.

The club has guaranteed the City Council at least $360 on November 1, which is six per cent of the town's investment in the municipal course, and will pay all running expenses of the course through the summer, including the salary of the golf pro.

This agreement between the club members and the city council will relieve the latter of all responsibility in regulating the course and yet give the city at least $360. If more than that sum is cleared by the club then the city will also get the benefits of the additional receipts.

Rates of membership were set as follows: man and family, $20; single man, $16; single woman, $10; non-resident, $10; beginner, $5 monthly, payments to apply on full membership if desired.

The season membership is to run from May 1, 1939, to May 1, 1940.

Hotel Razed

The Frantz hotel, a portion of which was built during the late eighties, and additions made to it in later years by Thomas F. Burke, is being razed. The lumber thus salvaged is to be used in the construction of other buildings in Oakland.

The residence portion of the old structure, facing on Liberty street, which was erected some time during the year 1878, will be repaired and probably rented.

The hotel proper contains about 20 bedrooms. It has been vacant for several years. When all people came to Oakland by rail, it was one of Oakland's leading hotels.

Charges against Lewis Vernon Hockenberry, of Mt. Savage, who was held in the Oakland jail for several days on a charge of robbing William R. Meyers, of Meyerdale, Pa., a coal trucker, on April 19, at gun-point on the Pinel road, were dismissed Tuesday afternoon at a hearing before Magistrate Charles F. White.

Meyers charged that a group of nine pickets halted his truck and that one of the number held a gun on him and robbed him of $43, a coat, flashlight and thermos bottle. The pickets then dumped his load of coal, he said.

Mr. White said that Meyers was unable to identify Hockenberry as the man who had the gun, even though he was one of the number who halted the truck on the highway about midnight.

The hearing created considerable interest and Justice White's office was crowded with unionists and sympathizers.

TB Clinic Held

This was one of the largest clinics of that nature held here, and is in line with the continuation of the early diagnosis campaign throughout Maryland this year.

Earlier in the morning the group will have its picture taken, the first one to be taken of the company and its equipment since purchase of the new uniforms.

Man Jailed at Piedmont after Capture by Judge and Constable

Piedmont, W. Va., May 11.—Charges of automobile theft and drunkenness were placed against a 27-year-old Mt. Savage man here this afternoon after he wrecked a car he had allegedly stolen a short time before.

The man, Edward F. Barrett, was taken to the Mineral county jail at Keyser after his capture by Magistrate Paul Thomas and Constable William Bryant.

Authorities said he stole a car owned by the Mineral County Garage, which John Kidner, a salesman, had parked on Ashfield street.

Barrett took the car, they said, drove around the block and back up Ashfield street, where he collided with a car driven by DeSales Bissett, of Piedmont. Both drivers escaped injury, but the vehicles were badly damaged.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or uneasy passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Elderly Couple In Suicide Pact

Husband, Jobless and Penniless, Expected To Follow Wife in Death

Rainelle, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—A pathetic decision of two old people to die together resulted today in the death of the wife, and physicians said the husband could live only a few hours.

Frank Kline, 67, former lumberyard worker but lately on relief, stumbled into the office of Magistrate J. W. Lake soon after dawn and related that he and his wife had taken poison.

Lake said Kline's story was that, with two drinking glasses and a bottle of home-mixed poison, the couple left their home in Rainelle last night and walked into the woods.

Each drank a glass of the concoction they had prepared.

Mrs. Dora Kline, 66, died during the night but the husband said he was unable to retain the poison. He spent the night in semi-delirium until he recovered strength to stagger into town, Lake said.

Dr. W. C. McCauley reported tonight that Kline's condition was critical and he would not long survive his wife.

Penniless and on relief, Kline told the magistrate, the couple entered into a suicide pact "because we had nothing to live for... no friends, no children."

"I am sorry," Kline said just before the physician ordered him to bed in a nearby home, "that I didn't go with her."

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Mrs. Kline died of drinking poison.

Don Ameche Brings Immortal to Screen In Alexander Graham Bell

Don Ameche brings another immortal character to the motion picture gallery of the great in the title role of Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," which opens tomorrow at the Strand Theatre.

Ideally cast as the young genius who invented the telephone, inspired by the unfailing devotion of a beautiful young girl, the popular actor offers his greatest portrayal in this stirring romantic drama which symbolizes the tradition of America.

Sharing stellar honors with him in this Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox are Loretta Young, as the deaf Mabel Hubbard, whose affliction was the inspiration for his great accomplishment; and Henry Fonda as Thomas Watson, the untiring and devoted assistant who shared the early years of hope and struggle of Alexander Graham Bell.

Poverty, starvation, disappointment and ridicule were faced by the young dreamer. So intense was his struggle that he halted on the threshold of his great invention, ready to sacrifice it so that he might find happiness with the girl whose love kept the flame of his genius alight through the years. It was she who made him go on!

Ironically enough, after all the drama and suffering of these years, the moment of discovery had a humorous angle.

For Alexander Graham Bell accidentally found the secret of the telephone when he burned a hole in his pants with laboratory acid!

Associate Producer Kenneth Macgowan entrusted important supporting roles in the cast to Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Spring Byington, and the three sisters of Loretta Young: Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgiana Young.

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By MARIE BLIZARD

GOING HOME in the limo Eleanor took off her hat and leaned her head on her husband's shoulder. When they were clear of traffic Phil put an arm around her and guided the wheel with his left hand. She snuggled closer to him, and looking down at her he saw that a small, happy smile played around her mouth.

He felt a surge of tenderness for her. Her face in the dim light looked youthful, unguarded. He felt as he did when Jessica climbed into his lap. It was almost a new emotion for him to feel for his wife. Eleanor had somehow forgotten him the complete range of emotions he might have felt before. It was true that he, and she alone, knew her, but even knowing her was not enough to permit him to break through the wall of inner privacy that she commanded. There was an inviolableness about her always that he had sensed from the beginning.

"Happy?" he asked softly. She nodded against his shoulder. "What are you thinking about?" "I'm thinking that I ought to tell you to put both hands on the wheel."

"Romantic lass, aren't you?" She laughed. "Not a bit. I save all that for my characters." "Shall I remove the arm?" "No, darling. I like it. But it will be nice when we can afford a chauffeur. Then we can sit in the back of our town car and I can sleep peacefully on your shoulder."

His voice was accusing: "I knew your thoughts were worth more than a penny. That's why I didn't offer one. Out with it! What were you really thinking?"

She answered: "Of all the things we'll be able to do soon, Phil, it really looks as if we were going places." His face set more firmly and he devoted himself to his driving. It was the moment to tell her that he had talked to Kate, that he had decided to go to Bermuda with her. But he couldn't say it then. He knew her thoughts as if she had spoken them. They were "going places." Already her imagination had leaped to newer, larger circles. And action would follow her imagination. She was no idle dreamer. With her opportunities, she had plenty of ability to seize them.

He cleared his throat. "I had a

"...ata," he began. "You did. Hours and hours of long talk. Phil, Mr. Newberry is coming out to lunch tomorrow to discuss promotion plans. He has some of the most original ideas!"

Her husband swallowed his disappointment. His second opportunity to speak of the family holiday had come and gone. His anticipation of her pleasure was growing dim.

"If the book goes—and he doesn't see any reason why it won't with the build-up they're giving me—he indicates that I'll be jammed with offers."

"Of course," Phil murmured. "Publication date is set for mid-September. And Ned Blakely—Blakely was the radio star that Phil had invited to the tea—has asked me to appear as his guest on his radio show. Newberry says I'll probably be paid five hundred dollars for that. I imagine being paid five hundred dollars to speak for five minutes! Oh, Phil, we'll make a fortune if this goes over."

"That'll be very nice," he said evenly. "Remind me to have last year's coat relined with sable. And we might have some rubies put in the tail light."

Eleanor tugged at her husband's sleeve. "You told me I was a humbug once, Phil. Now you're the one who's being an old humbug. You pretend that you don't want to be rich and famous, but I know better. If I hadn't got some push about our situation, where'd we be? Back in Greenwich Village in a smelly, hot flat! Own up, darling, and confess that you love living out here and living nicely. Own up that you like having a car and belonging to a golf club and having a say in the community affairs."

"It isn't really necessary, is it?" he asked her with the crooked smile that was only partly wry. "That's better," she said. "I wish you could be home for lunch tomorrow. I'd like to know what you think of Mr. Newberry's plans."

"What sort of plans has he?" "I don't know really. First off I've got to have a lot of pictures taken for the book sections of the newspapers. Then he said some things about arranging for me to talk before some groups of business women. I believe he is making some out-of-town arrangements for me, too." "That, that'll all be in the autumn, when the book comes out, won't it?" There was a thread of anxious inquiry in his voice. "Of course. After the book is out."

"Good!" His voice sounded heartening. "But in the meantime, I've got to go over the galleys and all that sort of thing. That'll keep me busy for another month and then..."

"I... I've been thinking over that holiday for the four of us. I think I can make it, honey. If you could be packed by the end of next week, we could get the Saturday boat."

"Oh, I'm so sorry," she said at once. The way, he thought, he had heard her say she was so sorry she couldn't go to a bridge party. "I really can't leave now, Phil. It wouldn't be good business."

"There's a mail service between here and Bermuda, Nell. You could send back your galleys."

"Well," she said hesitantly. "It isn't only that. I was rather rushed with invitations today. Invitations for both of us. In fact, it was your friends—Miss Jessop and the Gardiners and the others—who said they've always wanted to know Phil's wife. Naturally, I can't turn them down. They're people who really are in the swim of things, and I'm afraid if I put them off they'll have forgotten me."

He might have told her that he had only to raise his finger and they'd come running with other invitations, but he did not do so. "After that we can get off, darling. After all, you weren't too keen on it, you know, so it won't matter if we put it off for a few weeks."

"I rather thought that it was Jessica you were thinking of. You said you thought the change of air would be good for her."

"Jessica is getting along beautifully. Darling, we'll be off in three or four weeks, I promise. You wouldn't ask me to make a sacrifice now, would you?"

Sacrifice. It was a word that Phil would never have thought of. Not even to describe anything he had ever done or would do for her. He said that of course he would not. The Parrishes did not get off on their holiday until November. And it was after Eleanor had met Dwight Morgan. She didn't tell Phil why she wanted to go then. She said: "Phil, let's go away and get to know each other and see if we don't find each other the two most interesting people in this or any other world we are likely to know." (To Be Continued)

minnie balls that passed over my head, and when the shooting let up a bit, I hollered 'surrender.' "That was what they did. Another platoon joined them, too, and I counted about sixty altogether."

But getting back to the present Mrs. Craig.

She was the daughter of the Confederate fighter, General Duffield. It was because of Duffield that Craig joined up.

The Confederates campaigned close to Craig's Nicholas county home, and some one had to carry the mails from Summersville over Powell's mountain in spite of the fighting.

Craig, 19 at the time, volunteered, and for two weeks slipped through the mountain country, always watching out for Duffield's men.

Enlisted With Union

Finally he decided the only course open was to enlist with the Union. When the war was over, Craig turned down General Custer's request that he go west with the cavalry and came back to Nicholas county to purchase the farm on which he now lives. Craig's first wife died, and in 1890, he married Miss Delilah Duffield. At the birthday party, "Uncle Ham" spoke about the time friends prevailed upon him to enter politics.

Such is the nature of politics. "No, I told them," he recounted. "I figured that if the Lord got me through that terrible war without a fatal accident, I shouldn't turn my back on Him and enter politics."

"Uncle Ham" Craig Recalls Capture of Sixty Confederates

Richwood, W. Va., May (AP)—"Uncle Ham" Craig, whose bravery has become a hill legend, is making plans for the celebration of his golden wedding anniversary with the daughter of the man he once feared most.

May 1 was Peter Hamilton Craig's ninety-fifth birthday anniversary, and the old Civil war veteran proudly wore the moth-eaten old tie "he wouldn't take a farm for."

The red tie was the emblem of George Custer's cavalry brigade, "Uncle Ham's" outfit in the Civil war. It was while wearing it that the then young farm boy captured sixty Confederate soldiers single-handed.

"Shucks," said "Uncle Ham," "I

"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNT WHEN YOU CAN

ADDING THE NUMBER of cards known to be held by a certain player in two suits and then subtracting from thirteen will tell how many he holds in the other two suits. If you then ascertain the exact number held by either him or his partner in one of those two suits, it is simple as A, B, C to reckon how many he has in the remaining one. At least it ought to be, but many people who can handle much more intricate figures than those refuse to apply themselves to that simple assignment in arithmetic and so fail to make many safe contracts.

South found two ways to kick game out of the window on this rubber bridge hand, first by bad bidding and then by bad play. After North bid 1-Spade and East 2-Hearts, South called 3-Clubs, about the last right thing he did. North then bid 3-Diamonds, East doubled and South, who might well have passed to see if his partner now wanted to try 3-No Trump, bid 4-Clubs instead, and North went to 5-Clubs. In answer to the double of diamonds, West led the J of that suit to the Q and K. East took the A, ruffed with the A, then disposed of all the trumps, discarding North's heart 3. By now South should have known that East had five each in the red suits, and only one trump, therefore only two spades, but he tried three rounds of high spades and had to lose a spade at the end, being down one.

Proper play of the spades was marked by the count on East's hand. After the A and K, South should have fished the 10, knowing East couldn't follow, and the contract would have been made.

None of Your Lip!

—If It Hasn't That Satin-Smooth Look

By HELEN FOLLETT

WILL THE girls who are chasing beauty rainbows please remember that lips require something more than color if they are to carry that lovely, moist, satin-smooth appearance that is perfection?

One reason for blotches and smears is that the skin surface is not in normal condition. Harsh winds chap the lips as they make coarse and rough the fabric of face and hands. Biting the lips brings cutaneous rags and tatters, and they look horrid; a bad habit of the jittery girl who hasn't found out that relaxation is a worker in the cause of pulchritude. Mouth breathing dries the mouth portals. The use of harsh soaps is detrimental to their well-being.

When washing your face use clear water on your eyes, then carefully cleanse your lips with soap suds, being very gentle. After the facial rinsing and a light patting with the towel, apply a cream or white vaseline to your lips. Let it remain on over night. Repeat the treatment in the morning, removing the cream when you are ready to flourish the rosy lipstick.

If the lips are badly chapped, dip a pledget of cotton in rose-water, using that instead of soap.

And do you know that if you will plunge an orangewood stick in lip rouge, form a clearly defined outline, then work in the lipstick, you will produce a lovely neat effect?

The long-legged girl with the short torso should place her belt a bit lower than the normal waistline or dispense with the belt altogether. Proportions will be better.

The full-busted woman with normal hips will find figure improvement in the girdle that is dropped slightly—not low enough to throw her out of the fashion picture, of course.

No plumpie should ever wear a wide belt. Cross lines lope off inches and up and down inches are what she needs.

The placing of the belt is of the utmost importance. It should be snug and trim these days when waists are more waspy than they have been since the New Woman chucked her cast iron corsets into the furnace.

Moscow Scientists Play In Their Own Orchestra

Moscow (P)—The life of Soviet scientists is harmonious—they play in their own orchestras.

An orchestra of 65 pieces which recently performed in the Moscow Conservatoire featured a professor of thermotechnics at the trombone.

Among the violinists was a professor of mining, a professor of bridge-building and a physicist. Cellists included a prominent microbiologist and a neuropathologist.

All the musicians were workers in universities or scientific institutions, or members of the workers' families. In summer the orchestra tours the Volga, giving concerts in factories and Red Army barracks.

igan has this topic, "The Labor Question," for a WOR-MBS talk at 9:30.

Animals Best Tasters

Chicago (P)—Animals have a better sense of taste than man, says a Hungarian doctor whose researches on the matter are reported in the current issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association. The antelope has 50,000 taste buds to man's 3,000, according to the article, and fish taste with their whole bodies.

"Don't TAKE ANY WOODEN NICKLES!"

A WARNING OFTEN
HEEDED IN THE OLD DAYS
THAT IS SELDOM NEEDED NOW ...!

THE U. S. Mint never did coin any wooden nickels. But people used to take 'em just the same.

Grandma ran the chance of getting a "wooden nickel" pushed at her every time she went shopping. She kind of expected it and the store-keeper didn't like to disappoint her. That's why Grandma had to be smart as a buggy whip at bargaining. It was really sort of a game.

Paying money for five yards of muslin and getting four-and-a-half, buying an umbrella with a tiny hole in it or coming away with a jug of vinegar that had been "cut"—that was known as "taking wooden nickels." It was just a polite, countrified way of saying "gettin' cheated." And it happened every day.

YET you can't blame Grandma too much. She wasn't dumb. Poor soul, she just wasn't informed. She didn't always know where to buy. There weren't any ads in the paper to tell her. At least not enough to shake a stick at. And such newspaper advertising as there was, back in the bustle-and-buggy days, didn't say much.

Not that there was any lack of good, honest, dependable merchants in Grandma's time! A lot of them are still in business. But they were often stymied by the lads with the phoney bargains. While the wooden-nickel boys kidded the public into believing they could undersell a decent merchant on honest value, those decent merchants had to sit still and take it. It was tough going; ask the old-timer.

Yet all the while those honest store-keepers had a powerful weapon right at their elbows and didn't know it: printers' ink! For business men in those days had not yet recognized what almost all of them know today: that newspaper advertising is the greatest single safeguard the buying public possesses! They knew—a few of them—that advertising helped business. They didn't know it helped their customers, too. They didn't know this: that an informed public always buys wisely and supports the store that deserves support.

HOW does newspaper advertising help you? How does it guard you from buying inferior, shoddy merchandise? How does reading the ads keep you from "taking any wooden nickels?" The answer is simple. You won't find inferior merchandise advertised in the newspaper! Because: (1) Newspaper advertising pulls the crowds. Thousands of people read it. Thousands act on it. Results come fast; too fast for the gyp-artist. Too many people have a chance to compare his offerings with the real values, both in the ads and in the stores. If he's "pulling a phoney" too many people find out about it at once. He's exhausted his whole sucker-list at one crack. And he can never fool 'em again. Fraud shuns the light. (2) Newspaper advertising, like any other good investment, costs money. No trickster is going to invest money for the long pull when he can bank on being found out before he gets his investment back.

You play safe when you buy advertised goods! Because you have the chance to check and compare claims and prices in the paper before you buy. And because economic necessity forces a merchant to live up to promises he makes in print to thousands.

YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY WHEN YOU BUY FROM THE MERCHANT WHO ADVERTISES
IN THE NEWSPAPER

Advertised goods are invariably greater values. You get more for your money when you buy them. Here's why! Newspaper advertising gives a merchant fast economical distribution . . . he can buy better merchandise in larger quantities and hence more cheaply. And because of the intense daily competition for public favor from the thousands of people who read all the ads every day—every advertiser must pass those lower costs on to the consumer—and does so gladly!

Tahitians Oppose Plan for Refugee Colony

Papeete, Tahiti (AP)—Tahitians have written their colonial delegate at Paris opposing a proposal to settle Jewish and Spanish refugees on the islands of French Oceania. Local authorities point out that it has been repeatedly demonstrated that persons from Europe do not make a success of tropical agriculture. They point to an ambitious Czech-Slovak project of the same kind which was a failure despite the good land assigned to the settlers.

Farmer Uses Cast-offs To Build Lighting System

Greenville, S. C. (AP)—Taking discarded automobile parts, odd pieces of lumber and $10, Louis B. Fowler, an ingenious hill country farmer, built a miniature hydro-electric plant that has been supplying his home with electricity for more than a year.

The main parts of the home-made system are an automobile generator, a small waterwheel driven from a race at a nearby creek dam, and wiring and electric fixtures.

Fowler says the plant supplies ample current for his lights and radio. "My plant is so simple and inexpensive," he says, "that I don't see why any farmer with running water on his place need be without electricity."

Growing Conditions Reported Improved

Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Maryland's growing season has been labeled "backward of normal" by the weather bureau, but it's likely to forge ahead if there is a continuation of the past week's conditions.

The bureau noted that cool weather gave way to summer-like conditions on May 4, with temperatures ranging from 80 degrees in Garrett county to 90 in other sections of the state.

"The weather of the week was favorable for growth of vegetation," the report said, "and much plowing has been accomplished. The surface soil has dried; grains continue nicely green and good to excellent; grasses and pastures improved to good to excellent."

Wheat and rye are "heading up" throughout the state and early oats were reported two inches high at Northeast.

"Pea plants are good to excellent," the report continued. "Early potatoes are being cultivated in southern and central counties and are coming up in the northern counties." Considerable corn was planted. Setting out tomato, sweet potato, watermelon, cantaloupe, cucumber, pepper and other plants is in progress. Tobacco plants in beds are good. Georgia tomato plants received at Preston have been set out."

"Ephemeris of the Sun and Planets and Tables of Azimuths and Altitudes of Planets for the Year 1939" is the title of a United States department of interior document giving the working hours of the sun and the North star.

Tenement Fire Endangers Eighteen Families

Firemen Prevent Terrible Blaze In Long Battle

Large Crowd Gathers As Flames Sweep Above Drug Store

Eighteen families were driven into the street yesterday as firemen battled a stubborn blaze in South Cumberland which threatened to destroy an entire block.

Firemen finally were able to check the fire after it had swept through about a dozen apartments. No one was injured, but one mother got warning just in time to save her two-months old baby. The pillow of the bed on which the baby was lying had already caught fire when the mother entered the room and snatched the child up.

The fire started, firemen said, in a shed built on the rear of Keech's Pharmacy at the corner of Virginia and Laing avenues. Papers and other junk were piled in the shed. The cause did not appear certain.

The fire spread rapidly, eating into a one-story frame house at 7 Laing avenue and a two-story house at 9-11 Laing avenue.

A brisk breeze blowing when the blaze broke out just before 3 p. m., and the wind carried the fire through the apartments over the pharmacy and through the second story apartments in the adjoining tenement house.

For a while it seemed that the flames would break through the frame front of the tenement building on Virginia avenue, but firemen braved the smoke and heat and doused out the fire from inside the building.

A large crowd collected, and police were forced to stretch guard lines to keep the spectators back. Traffic had to be routed around the point.

The pharmacy was not damaged by fire except in the back, but a lot of water came through the ceiling and much of the stock was moved about.

Belongings Carried Out
Most of the tenement dwellers threw or carried their furniture and belongings to the safety of the sidewalk.

The pharmacy building, with two apartments overhead, is owned by James E. Keech. One apartment was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Welch, but they were not at home at the time of the fire. The other apartment was vacant.

The two small buildings on Laing avenue and the large tenement building on Virginia avenue are owned by Monroe Cohen.

He said eleven families, or about twenty-five people, lived in the large building, and six families in the Laing avenue buildings.

Build of Pine
Firemen looked at the flimsy, pine-board construction of the buildings, and shook their heads as they wondered out loud what would have happened if the blaze had started in the middle of the night.

As it was, many of the families barely had time to get down the stairs to safety.

The mother who picked up her baby from an already burning bed was Mrs. Joseph Pufferberger, wife of a WPA worker. She said a neighbor boy, Junior Bean, gave the alarm through the building.

"Fire, fire, get out, get out," the 12-year-old boy shouted through the halls, and women and children fled from their shabby living quarters at the dread sound.

Boy Discovers Blaze
Others living in apartments which were gutted are Mr. and Mrs. William Poling and their four children, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Melvin, Richard Lockhart Sr. and his family lived in the badly burned Laing avenue building next to the shed where the fire started.

Richard Lockhart Jr., aged 8, is believed to have been the first to see the fire. He was going to the drug store to get an ice cream cone when he saw the blaze and returned screaming to his home.

An accurate estimate of the damage had not been made yesterday. It is not expected to run over $10,000, however.

Coal Pickets Fined $10 For Stopping Truck

Four men, charged with tampering with a motor vehicle yesterday in Justice-of-the-Peace Court before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., were each fined $10 and costs. One of the men had to pay an extra $10 and costs fine on an assault charge.

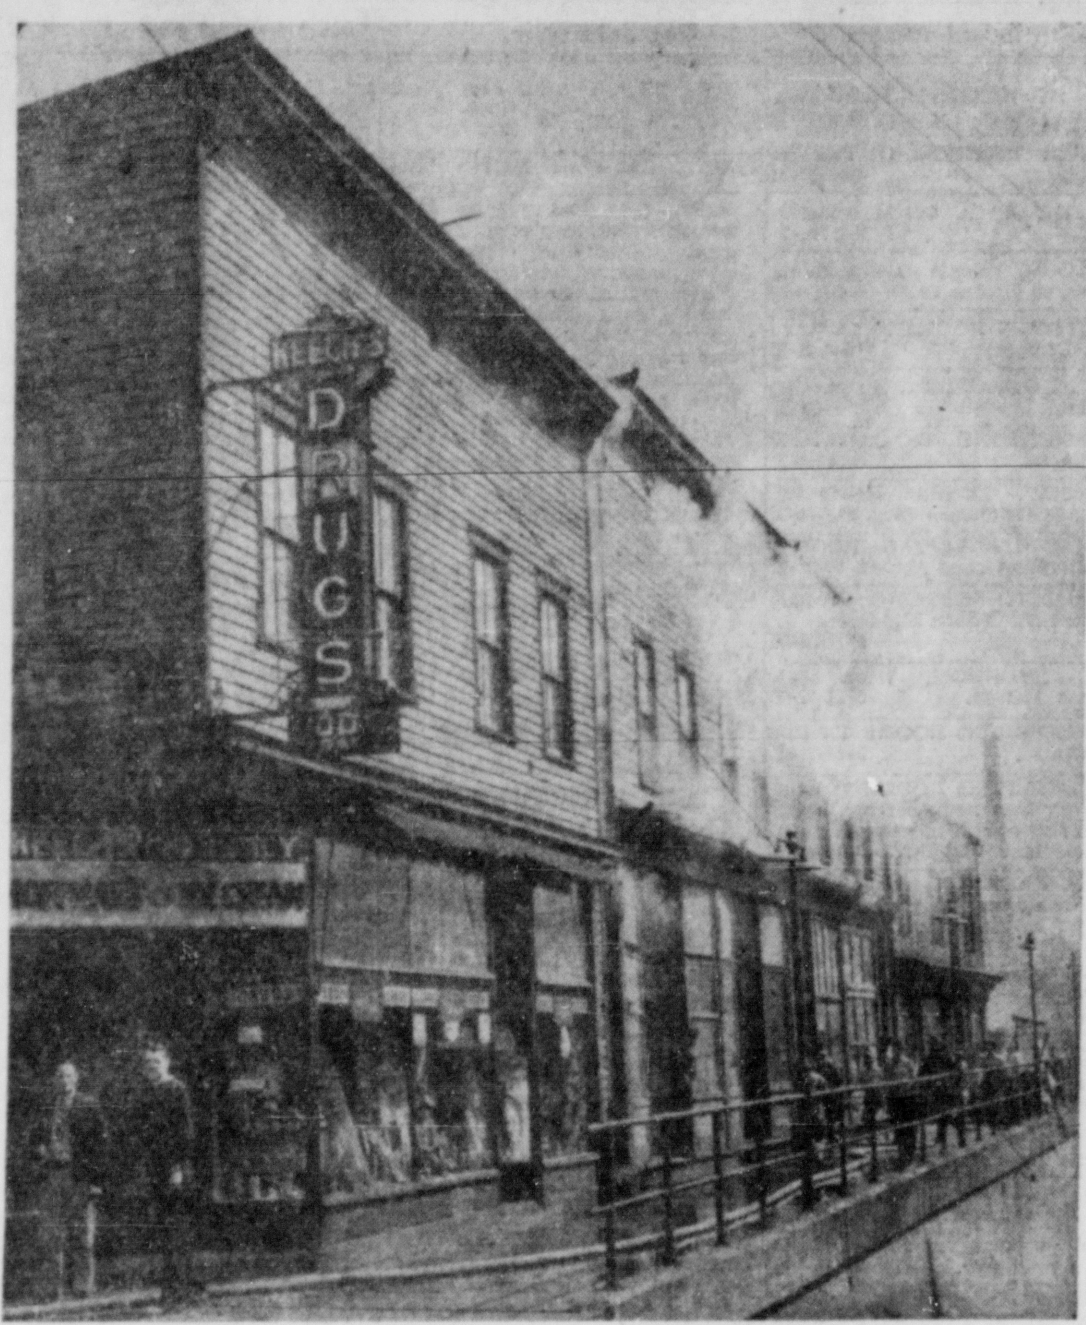

The men, Clyde Deal, William P. Sperry, Harold Johnson and Ralph Johnson, all of Zihlman, were arrested last Friday night by Lieut. Niles G. Falkenstein and Sgt. A. M. Spioch, of the State Police.

They were apprehended on the complaint of Alvin Depley, of Wellersburg, Pa., a coal trucker, who charged that the men threw stones at his truck Friday near Barrellville. He said the men forced him from the truck and when a helper on the truck tried to get help he was attacked by Harold Johnson.

All four men waived jury trial and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Second Fire of Afternoon Destroys Historical Antiques in Mapleside

Four antique chairs and table which date back to one of the most hairbrained escapades of the Civil war were ashes today along with a four-room Mapleside residence which was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon.

The grimy-faced members of Engine Company No. 2 had just returned to the South Cumberland station after quelling a tenement fire when the phone jangled summoning them to the home of Miss Mary Dahl, a WPA employee, living on Winifred road.

Firemen found the home gutted by flames when they arrived, and there was little they could do to save the nest little house which was not covered by insurance and was valued at $3000. The fire is believed to have started in the attic.

Bernard Dahl, 72, the father of the owner, said he was in the house peeling potatoes and onions for an oyster stew when he smelled smoke. He put the pan on the oil stove and went outside to investigate. When he returned, the whole inside of the house was in flames.

The aged man managed to save only a kitchen table and chair and a valuable violin made in 1748.

The antique chairs and table which were lost had graced the suite in the room at the old Wind-

Ray Huff Wins Marble Tourney

Mows Down Opposition For Fort Hill Crown

Sixteen-year-old Ray Huff today is the marble king of Fort Hill Junior High School.

The new champion drew a bead on too many marbles yesterday afternoon for seven other contestants including John Scarlett, runner-up, who was defeated in three straight matches by Sharpshooter Huff.

The eight finalists, all that remained of the 70 boys and six girls who originally entered the tournament, knuckled down yesterday afternoon on the tennis court arena with J. William Hunt, of the Cumberland Evening Times, Harry R. Vogtman, Fort Hill teacher, and Robert Cavanaugh, Fort Hill Coach, serving as judges.

In the opening four matches, John Scarlett defeated Betty Combs; James Whittaker took the measure of O'Brien Calhoun; Huff trounced William Farrell; and Oliver Sulser licked Junior Robey.

In the next playoff, Huff scored a win over Whittaker and Scarlett defeated Sulser, and then a gallery of some 75 students glued their attention on the two finalists.

The final match for the best three out of five turned out to be a walk-away for Huff, who won the first three matches due to the deadly accuracy of his spinning alley.

"Huff is a very accurate shot, controls his alley well, and is cool under fire," Wallace Ullery, Allegheny county marble champion in 1935, declared following the matches. Ullery was in charge of the tournament.

action of the October grand jury. She is charged with forging the name of Hilda E. Williams to a $15 Celinease pay check.

Deaths

Lucetta Hutson Parker
Mrs. Lucetta Hutson Parker, 316 Payette street, daughter of the late Judge Henry A. Hutson, of the Orphan's Court, died yesterday at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted Tuesday. She was 58.

It was from this very room that General Kelly was snatched by the daring members of O'Neill's crack Rangers who stole into the very center of the Union stronghold at night and kidnapped Kelly and later took Crook from the Revere House, the site now occupied by the Kenneweg Company.

The daring Confederate soldiers, who came from Hampshire and Hardy counties, managed to smuggle the two generals right out of their headquarters without a shot being fired or a sentry so much as noticing them. Both generals were asleep in bed when captured that night in February in 1865.

Miss Dahl was away from home when her home burst into flames. When she arrived home after work at 5 p. m. she found firemen working desperately to check the flames. For the present, she will stay at a neighbor's home.

An uncle, Anthony Kilcorn, who also resides with Miss Dahl and her father, had left the home and walked to Williams road to get the mail. He said that a paper boy told him smoke was coming from his house and he hurried back to find the place in flames.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Kennel, wife of Franklin S. Kennel, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at her home, 767 Maryland avenue. She was 59.

Born at Meyersdale, Pa., Mrs. Kennel was a daughter of the late Samuel and Amelia (Albright) Hutzell. She was a member of the Lutheran Church, of Meyersdale.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, J. Homer and Arthur Kennel; a daughter, Mrs. Frances Travis, and three grandchildren, all of Cumberland.

Mrs. Alice A. Core
Mrs. Alice Almeda (Martz) Core, widow of George W. Core, died Tuesday at the home of her son, Ira L. Smith, 711 Baltimore avenue. She was 59.

Mrs. Core was a member of the Melvin Chapel M. P. Church.

Surviving are two other sons, Floyd R. and Warren A. Smith, both of Cumberland; and four sisters, Mrs. Emma Emerick, of Fairhope, Pa.; Mrs. Anna Poorbaugh, of Wellersburg, Pa.; Mrs. Bertha Beck, of Glencoe, Pa.; and Mrs. Charles H. Sturtz, of Cumberland.

Jobless Male Untrue, Wife Wins Divorce

A wife who said her husband began "having dates with different girls" after they separated when he lost his job was granted an absolute divorce in Circuit court yesterday.

The wife, Mrs. Elsie Paye Sacco, was granted the right to her maiden name, Poland, in a decree signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Testimony heard by a court examiner showed that Mrs. Sacco, 23, was married to Samuel P. Sacco at Hagerstown in May, 1938. The couple lived in Frostburg until January, 1939, when Sacco lost his job. He returned to his parents' home and she to hers, according to the testimony.

Although he visited her occasionally "at first," he subsequently began running around with other girls, Mrs. Sacco charged, and was unfaithful.

The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

Dr. Koon Calls Budget Meeting

Council To Convene At 3 p. m. Today

A special session of the Mayor and City Council will be held today at 3 p. m. to study the new levy and city budget now being prepared at City Hall.

According to Mayor Thomas W. Koon, the commissioners will make a careful examination of the needs of the various departments of the city government today and will probably come to a tentative understanding regarding the levy and distribution of revenue.

In all likelihood, the Council will hold another session Saturday a week to approve the levy and budget, Mayor Koon stated. The mayor announced that he will not be present for the regular Council meeting Monday since he is leaving for the conference of mayors in New York Sunday night. He expects to arrive back in Cumberland Thursday night.

Mayor Koon stated yesterday that the new budget probably will not show any drastic increase over last year's budget, which was set at $552,774.41.

City Auditor Arthur Gibson has estimated that the new budget may show an increase of some $14,000 unless the Mayor and Council manage to pare down some of the allocations made last year. The additional amount is the result of various city improvements and election expenses.

Youth in Cell Waits for News From Hospital

Henry Laupert Remains In Critical Condition Following Accident

A young Lonaconing man was still being held at the county jail last night pending the outcome of the battle for life being waged by a mine union official in the Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Calls which arrived at the desk of the hospital yesterday regarding grave condition of Henry Laupert, 35, of Franklin, received the same reply: "No change has been noted in the patient's condition." Attendants did not expect him to live through the night Wednesday.

At the county jail, twenty-four-year-old Samuel Bean, of Lonaconing, awaited word from the hospital regarding Laupert, who was struck down by his automobile Tuesday night while walking home from a meeting of the United Mine Workers local in Franklin.

Questioned Wednesday
Bean was questioned Wednesday night at the State's Attorney's office by State Trooper Carl G. Storm and the county investigator. After Bean and other witnesses were questioned, Bean was taken into custody pending the outcome of the case.

The accident occurred at approximately 10:30 p. m. Tuesday night when the car driven by Bean struck Laupert near Price's store in Franklin. Miss Virginia Riddleman, 20, of McCoolle, who was riding in Bean's car, stated that they had been traveling at approximately fifty miles an hour. Bean estimated that his car was doing 30.

To Interview Witness
State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris stated yesterday that he expected to interview the driver of a car that was traveling right behind the Bean coupe when the accident occurred.

Harris said that the statement made by the driver of this second car would probably have considerable weight as to the final outcome of the case.

It was understood yesterday that Bean was to be released on bond furnished by a Lonaconing man, but his discharge from the county jail was held up due to a technicality concerning the bond proceedings.

The claim was against the Big Savage Refractories corporation, which contended that Armstrong was working as an "independent contractor" when he was killed on April 4, 1938.

The transcript of the testimony taken before the commission was read to the jury and showed that Armstrong was crushed to death in the gears of an electric hoisting machine at the Benson mine near Zihlman, which he operated with Edward Stowell.

The corporation, represented by Attorney A. O. Levin, claimed that Armstrong was working for himself and not for the company when he was engaged in getting the coal out of the mine. Testimony showed that he was paid for the coal on a royalty basis.

At the same time, however, the claimant, represented by Attorney Edward J. Ryan, maintained that Armstrong was employed and paid by the corporation to transport cars loaded with coal and clay from the mines to the Big Savage brick-yard.

The company, which objected frequently to the testimony and noted exceptions when their objections were overruled by Associated Judge William A. Huster, indicated that a new trial would be asked or an appeal noted.

Mystery Wounds Keep Young Hill In Deep Coma

Police Balked Because Victim Still Unable To Give Any Clues

Twenty-eight-year-old David Hill remained in a coma last night as anxious relatives who came rushing to his bedside speculated regarding the unsolved mystery that kept the youth stumbling to Allegheny Hospital early Wednesday morning.

Weak from loss of blood caused by a stab in the left arm and suffering from a blow at the base of the skull, the young Cumberland actor arrived at the hospital after leaving a trail of blood from the hospital to the middle of the block of Columbia street.

Although police were still speculating last night regarding the gruesome night episode that occurred in the vicinity of Columbia street, there was no doubt in the mind of the injured youth's mother, R. Mason Hill, as to what had occurred.

Certain Youth Attacked
Asked if it was his opinion that the youth had been brutally attacked, Mr. Hill, assistant clerk to a county commissioners register, said: "There is no question about it; he was stabbed. His wound was of the type of wound caused by a pointed instrument."

Asked if he believed the blow to the skull had been caused by a blunt instrument or by a fall on the pavement, Mr. Hill declared that in his opinion it was caused by a blow. He stated that Hill's attending physician concurred with him on this point.

Did Not Fall
As explained by a physician at the hospital, it is most unlikely that the victim fell to the pavement any time during the episode on Columbia street. Such a blow to Hill received would have had immediate effect on the optic nerve, providing the recipient fell to the ground, it was stated.

As it occurred, Hill, although semi-unconscious, had possessed his eyesight until put to bed at the hospital, it was stated. However, when put to bed his eyes failed due to the effects of blow he received.

It was also noted at the hospital that the victim's clothes showed no marks of having been on the ground. Mr. Hill said: "Asked about the fact that young man's coat sleeve had been cut, Mr. Hill stated that his nephew often carried his coat on his arm, particularly when walking."

Came From Pittsburgh
It was understood that the young man, who arrived in Cumberland a few weeks ago from Pittsburgh, was between two and three dollars on his person at the time of the attack on Columbia street.

According to Mr. Hill, his nephew was in downtown Cumberland Tuesday evening and later called on uncle, George Stevens, of West Terrace. It was estimated that the occurrence on Columbia street had happened while he was on way home to his room at 311 Laski street.

Young Hill's mother, Mrs. D. T. Hill Sr., and his sister, Mrs. V. L. Watson, both of Pittsburgh, arrived at the patient's bedside Tuesday night. According to Mr. Hill, the patient talked to his mother for a few minutes yesterday afternoon and then lapsed back into unconsciousness. Earlier, the patient had mumbled a few words to tendants at the hospital.

Officers, who have been baffled by the case and who have been marking time until they are able to talk to the youth, seemed determined to wait a while longer according to reports received from hospital last night.

It was understood that absolute quiet has been ordered for patient who has ice packs on head and a screen around his bed. Only his relatives have been allowed to sit quietly by his bedside.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris admitted yesterday that case appeared to be "tough to at" since the only person able to help the police, the victim, is in unconscious state at the hospital.

Harris said he had established definite theory regarding the case, but suggested the possibility that the youth might have been attacked or possibly injured while engaged in protecting himself. He appeared that the wound the youth received on his arm was the result of a stab, he said.

A checkup on young Hill's background revealed that he appeared to have no enemies either in Pittsburgh or in Cumberland. The youth formerly drove a truck in Pittsburgh and came to Cumberland looking for employment. No one could be found for an attack on him.
